FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Beaconsfield's Ultimate Recovery Considered Assured.

Details of the Transfer of the Ceded Territory to Greece.

Arrests in Ireland—French Topics—The Tunisian Trouble—Cablegrams.

Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 16.—At a meeting of the Ambassadors it was decided that the details for the surrender of the territory ceded to Greece should be settled between them and the Porte, and afterwards notified to Greece, and that an international commission should subsequently be summoned to superintend the cession of the Territory, the Porte ordering the Turkish commanders to quit an hour before the arrival, of the commissioners who would take possession of the various localities and hand them over to the Greek troops, who would arrive half an hour later. The Turkish commanders on leaving would take with them all individuals considered dangerous to the new order of things, and disarm all the Mussulman population. Ultimately after a surrender of the territory a technical military commission is to be appointed to settle the delimitation of the frontier.

Greece.

ATHENS, April 16.—The Hora, the organ of Tricoupis, characterizes the reply of the Greek Government to the proposal of the Powers as the most disgraceful coup d' etat since the formation of the Greek Kingdom.

THE POWERS DISPLEASED.

PARIS, April 16.—The Powers are displeased with the tone of the Greek reply to their note, and, while accepting its substance, have asked explanations regarding its form. Premier Commoundouros said that, in view of the excited state of the public mind and the dangers the throne might incur, he could not modify the form, and that he would simply abide by the note as sent until the Chamber of Deputies met and voted on the question. The Powers, notwithstanding this, have decided to consider the Greek acceptance as an accomplished fact, and have begun negotiations at Constantinople for the transfer of the ceded territory.

England.

LONDON, April 16.—Beaconsfield is much improved. The doctors are now confident of his ultimate recovery.

ARISTOCRATIC TOURISTS.

LONDON, April 16.—The steamer Gallia, for New York, will take out the Duke of Sutherland, the Marquis of Stafford and a party for a tour through Canada.

THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

The statement that it is practically decided England shall be represented at the Monetary Conference is certainly premature. The Government is unwilling to take any step having the appearance of compromising it.

INDIA TO BE REPRESENTED.

LONDON, April 16.—Lord Hartington, Secretary of State for India, has consented to send a delegate to the monetary conference on behalf of India, who will not, however, participate in the decisions of the conference.

France.

PARIS, April 16.—Revenue returns for the first quarter of the present year show, under indirect taxes, an increase upon the corresponding months of last year of 45,200,000 francs.

THE TUNISIAN TROUBLES.

The French are not expected to begin operations against Kroumers for a week, owing to defects in the transport service.

South Africa.

CAPETOWN, April 16.—The Basutos have been defeated at Leribe with heavy loss. The colonial loss is slight.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, April 16.—Mathew Harris, one of the Traversers at the State trial, has been arrested under the coercion act.

WESTERN WINTER WHEAT.

The Amount of Damage Will Not Affect the Total Crop.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The Times reports from all parts of the Western wheat region show an immense amount of damage done the crop by the severity of the winter, but there is not the slightest danger of a general failure of the harvest on that account. In a majority of the districts the crop is backward or in a unfavorable condition, but the reports do not intimate a failure anywhere, and in the fact that good prices and a handsome harvest for the two or three past years encourage the planting of a largely increased acreage in most localities there seems to be a fair offset for the injury suffered. In a great many sections the heavy snows of the winter furnished invaluable protection against the intense cold, and the late spring continued this defense through the critical period of alternate freezing and thawing of March. On the whole the situation is more encouraging than is generally believed, and unless disastrous late frosts or other unfavorable conditions materially impair the present prospect, the yield, taking the country at large, is likely not to be much less than last year's. Illinois and Indiana seem to have suffered more than any States.

FRUIT.

The fruit crop will be a total failure in many parts of Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and the Southern States. The trees in many cases were killed outright.

HONEY.

The bee keepers suffered greatly also.

WHOLESALE MASSACRE.

A Negro in a Drunken Quarrel Kills Two Men and Wounds Four.

CHICAGO, April 16.—A New Orleans special says on Sunday evening a triple tragedy occurred at Bayou Sorrell, Iberville, a hundred miles from here, in which two men were killed instantly and four badly wounded. An eye witness says a number of negros had been employed there cutting timber for J. O. Teny & Sons, and Saturday night while gambling, Cube Austin and Elijah Wall quarreled. Next day eight of the men, among them Austin and Wall, went in a boat to the supply store, three miles away, where whisky was freely drunk. The quarrel was renewed and Austin drawing a knife drove Wall from the camp, and threatening death if he came back. Wall went to a negro cabin, forcibly secured a shot gun, double loaded it and in ambush awaited the appearance of the boat. When about 125 yards from the starting point, Wall hailed them, and with the gun pointed at them ordered them to land. While yet begging him not to shoot, he fired, killing Charles Williams and Marshall Bowman and wounding four others, two seriously. Austin himself escaped unhurt. Wall is still at large. The Governr offers a large reward.

DIED ON THE GALLOWS.

The Execution of Henry Dueron in Arkansas Yesterday.

LITTLE ROCK, April 16.—Henry Dueron, colored, who killed his wife in the autumn of 1879, was hung yesterday afternoon in the presence of several thousand witnesses at Des Arc, Arkansas. Dueron acknowledged his guilt in a brief speech, and when the trap was sprung fell twelve feet and died instantly, the fall breaking his neck. Dueron was a desperate character. He killed his first wife several years before, but was never brought to justice. He has for the past two months made several attempts to commit suicide without success. The murder of his second wife caused much excitement at the time and was regarded as cold blooded and indicative of a brutal nature capable of nothing better, Dueron was about forty years old and had a repulsive face. His hanging is regarded as a just and proper punishment for his devilish crimes.

TRIPLE MURDER.

A Horrible and Fiendish Crime Perpetrated Near San Antonio, Texas.

GALVESTON, April 16.—The News' San Antonio special details a horrible triple murder about seven miles from the city. John Simmons, a heavy stock owner, left home on Sunday. Yesterday a herder named J. S. Phillips went out with sheep about noon. Mrs. Simmons was found lying in the herder's room with her throat cut, and from appearances had been outrageously assaulted. An alarm was given and soon the bodies of a child and Mrs. Simmon's mother, Mrs. Parker, were found at the foot of an embankment, a hundred yards from the house. The skull was crushed in with a rock. The herder seems to think Simmons is the murderer, but he himself was committed without bail.

Help for Dakota.

CHICAGO, April 16.—In the Board of Trade to-day the deprivations, disasters and sufferings of the communities in Dakota which have been subjected to an overflow of the Missouri River this spring were presented by several gentlemen who knew the situation. A committee was appointed to raise funds, and a liberal response is certain.

A CORNERER CORNERED.

The grain men at an informal meeting held in a corner of the room unanimously agreed that McGeogh, of Milwaukee, who is manager of the Pork Corner here, should send 1,000 barrels of pork to the sufferers. It is not known that the recommendation will be complied with.

Triple Tragedy.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—A Chico dispach last night says that Henry Swearinger, a resident of Dayton, seven miles from here, shot his mother-in-law, Mrs. David Boucher, killing her. He next shot his wife in the arm, and seizing her and placing a pistol to her breast fired it with fatal effect. He then sent a bullet through his own brain. There had been some family trouble between the parties. Mrs. Boucher was the widow of the late State Senator for Butte county.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—For Ohio Valley and Tennessee warmer, fair weather, westerly winds, stationary followed by falling barometer. Lower lake region, warmer, fair weather, westerly winds, and rising followed by stationary barometer. Upper lake region, stationary followed by falling barometer, stationary or higher temperature, westerly shifting to southerly winds, fair weather.

Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri Valleys, fair weather, lower barometer, stationary or higher temperature and southerly winds.

A Slick Ballot-Box Stuffer.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Peter N. W. Flynn, justice of the peace, was judge of election in Jersey City election day, last Tuesday. While the vote was being counted he was detected in the act of putting a package of ballots in the box. His arm was seized before he could drop them, and a number of ballots found concealed in his coat sleeve. Yesterday afternoon the parties who witnessed the act went before the Grand Jury and had Justice Flynn indicted. He was arrested and locked up in the county jail this morning.

River Mail Service.

MEMPHIS, April 16.—R. C. Jackson, B. K. Sharretts and H. C. Gibson, the commission appointed by Postmaster General James to investigate the River mail services, centering in this city, also the workings of the Memphis Post-office, have arrived. They begin the investigation Monday.

A Panther Shot.

MEMPHIS, April 16.—A full-grown panther was shot at daylight this morning by a negro man three miles north of this city, over in the Arkansas canebrake. The negro was out hunting wild turkeys when he discovered the panther, which prepared to attack him, but he shot it before it made the spring.

Mount Washington.

WASHINGTON, N. H., April 16.—It has been snowing here since the afternoon of the 14th. There is more snow on the summit and the drifts are greater than at any time before this winter. Low barometer; temperature 14°, velocity of wind 100 miles from the northwest.

Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Loans, increase, $1,139,000; specie, decrease, $2,389,700; legal tenders, increase, $955,900; deposits, increase, $6,082,600; circulation, increase, $171,200; reserve, increase, $1,837.450. The banks now hold $4,042,625 in excess of legal requirements.

A Northeast Gale.

VINEYARD HAVEN, April 16.—The hardest northeast gale experienced in two years passed over last night, accompanied by rain and snow. Three vessels lying at the wharf broke their fastenings and were driven ashore.

Closed.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Cotton Exchange is closed.

MILITARY MELANGE.

The National Guard regimental hop occurs May 4.

The Fair Association will offer no military prizes this year.

Company A, Police Reserves, have this week resumed drill for the season.

The National Guard Association will hold a civil meeting to-night at Armory Hall.

G. J. Hydecker of the U. S. A. Engineer Corps is in this city to-day and stopping at the Lindell.

There are many predictions abroad that the St. Louis military won't hold together beyond this year.

Dr. McLean has promised to loan one of his patent guns to Battery A, National Guard, to practice with.

The hop of Company K, National Guards, last Thursday night at armory, was quite a military and social success.

Lieut. Leroy E. Sebree, Inspector of the Signal Service Corps, who spent the week in St. Louis, left last night for Keokuk.

Company F, Police Reserves have, about concluded to disband, unless they can obtain Pierre Chouteau for captain. Capt. George Priest has not the time to spare to bring his company up to the standard.

Work on the new armory of the St. Louis Light Cavalry will begin next week. The organization having changed its name was reincorporated this week. The company now has about thirty-five live members on its roll. Capt. Robert Wade resigned a short time since, and Lieut. Frank Halliday is now ranking officer of the company.

General order No. 6 was issued last Tuesday by Col. Chapman, of the St. Louis National Guards, and is as follows: "I.—By and with his consent Major Leland F. Prince is hereby detailed as Acting Adjutant of his own regiment (the 1st), to date from February 9. II.—Private Fred Julian, of Company A, is hereby detailed for special duty on the color guard with the rank of Sergeant. III.—When the State colors are present they will be carried by Sergeant Julian. IV.—Whenever it becomes necessary to issue orders from regimental headquarters, where postal cards are used, they will be furnished by and on application to the agent of the St. Louis National Guards. V.—Companies A, B, C, D, E and G will assemble for battalion drills on Tuesday, the 19th and Saturday, the 30th, at 8 o'clock p. m. sharp.

MAGNIFICENT scenery, elegant wardrobes, wonderful mechanical affects in the production of "Mazeppa." Pope's Sunday matinee.

NIMROD NOTES.

Fishing is reported good in the various lakes notwithstanding the rivers are so high.

Gus Hubbard and Joseph Lucas start Monday for a few days snipe shooting at Brevidor.

Ducks have been very plentiful hereabouts, but a week of this weather will drive them all away.

At least fifteen or twenty parties leave tonight for a Sunday's snipe shoot within twenty-five miles of St. Louis.

Messrs. Robert E. Carr and Dabney Carr, of the "Brevidor Club," went up to Brevidor last Monday and bagged ten dozen snipe in one day.

Capt. A. H. Bogardus, the champion wing shot, is in this city to-day from Elkhart, Ill., probably with a view of arranging a match with an Indiana expert.

Snipe are reported very plentiful this year. They were kept South so long by the cold that they have come North altogether. This will make a short season and those who want snipe must certainly go for them next week.

Messrs. David Ranken and Sylvester Chouteau went up to Brevidor on Thursday. The former killed ninety-nine snipe the first day and the two in two days secured fifteen dozen. Brevidor is part of the Cap Au Gris prairie above St. Charles.

Mr. Will Nave is having excellent luck in soliciting donations for prizes for the State Tournament here next month. Three guns have been contributed of the value respectively of $125, $125 and $200, the last a new English patent of a hammerless gun. Other donations consist of 100 bags of shot, a great deal of powder, three saddles, a vase and several pieces of fine silverware and gold medals.

New Buildings.

C. & H. L. Neidringhaus will expend $6,000 in making improvements on their building, northwest corner of Tenth and Franklin avenue.

The St. Louis Tunnell Railroad Company's building, mentioned in yesterday's P.-D. as to cost $50,000, was incorrect. It is to only cost $15,000.

Mr. John H. Lieman is to have a three-story eight-room store and dwelling, to cost $5,000, on Eighth street, between Olive and Pine streets.

Mrs. C. Curtis is to have a two-story four-room dwelling, to cost $2,000, on Second Caron-delet avenue, between Lami and Pauline streets.

THE Gallant Gray Charger, "Jas. Melville." Don't miss seeing him. Sunday matinee at Pope's.

HEALTH is better than wealth. Try C. Conrad & Co.'s Budweiser, at Nos. 411 and 419 North Sixth street, and be convinced.

How Did Kaub Get Out?

City Attorney Erskine was expressing his displeasure in an emphatic kind of way this morning. He had Ed. Kaub, the lottery man, locked up last night with the understanding that that meant confinement. This morning Mr. Erskine was informed from a source he doesn't reveal that Kaub through some means was only a prisoner constructively and had really enjoyed about as much pure air as any denizen of this city in spite of the commitment. Ignorance of Mr. Kaub's release was pleaded at the Marshal's office, and the City Attorney is finding considerable difficulty in establishing the responsibility for the mysterious exercise of clemency toward Kaub.

'TWILL pay you to examine A. MCELRATH'S stock before buying your Spring outfit of socks, underwear, neck-dress, etc.

Marshal Thomas' Appointments.

Marshal Thomas expects to take charge of his office on Tuesday. He has some fourteen or fifteen appointments to make, only three or four of which can be foreshadowed. J. M. Thomas, the clerk of the First District Police Court, will be the Marshal's Chief Deputy. Jim Tracy will be kept at the Second District Police Court. Tom Martin will have charge of the dog pound. Beyond this the Marshal is not ready to make known who will constitute his staff. The colored man and brother, it is understood, will come in for one or two minor positions.

Motion Day.

A motion for a new trial in the case of John Summerville was argued and overruled. He has been fined $500. Mr. Noland will file a motion in arrest. A motion to commute in the case of David Brock was sustained on payment of all costs. Samuel Kelso was granted a new trial. In the matter of Joseph Limberger and Daniel O'Connor continuances were granted.

Missing.

William Tobin, aged 24 years, 5 feet 7½ inches high, medium build, auburn hair and moustache, is missing from his home, 2733 Penrose street. He left home last Wednesday night to go to a party. He dressed in a black suit, soft black hat and brown overcoat. Nothing has been heard of him since last Wednesday.

SUNDAY matinee, "Mazeppa" prices, 75, 50 and 25c, at Pope's.

ALICE BONHAM'S house at 616 St. Charles, was raided last night. Three girls and five men were arrested.

BOSTON GOSSIP.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, April 12.—A nasty, miserable sleet and snow storm rules Boston to-day—the "April shower" of poets' fancy, perhaps—warranted to bring forth the usual May flowers on Easter bonnets next Sunday. It doesn't look much like new millinery, and that's a fact! However, Easter is bound to come, and so will the millinery. And so will Easter cards this year—showers of them! The rage for cards is really growing into something enormous. The most exquisite things imaginable are in the shop windows. It is a perfect treat just to stand with nose against the pane, "little Mabel" fashion, and gaze at them. All possible designs are represented and the taste and ingenuity which must have been exercised in inventing them is no slight matter.

Employment of the most graceful kind has been given this season to hundreds of young ladies in making and decorating the various fanciful egg-shaped bonbon boxes with which the windows of the fancy goods and confectioners' stores are fitted. All sizes and numberless designs are shown. Silk, satin, plush and velvet eggs, eggs embroidered and eggs painted, big eggs and little eggs, real eggs, pasteboard eggs and sugar eggs. One arrangement, very pretty and "cute," but which defied one to guess whether the eggs were natural or artificial, was a little wicker basket filled with dried grasses and packed with most real looking eggs, an exact imitation of the big baskets of eggs as sent to market. I wanted very much to know whether those charming eggs were made of real sugar, or of yolks and whites, but I felt a little ashamed to go in and ask. Among the more common designs are eggs just broken at the end, with a wee chick's head peeping out, while from other peeps the most comical, mischievous pussy's head, and yet others decidedly ugly are apparently just hatching a pug dog. Some of the mammoth eggs open and the inside is painted to show a pretty landscape. In one is pictured a New England winter scene, and in the foreground is a little boy in effigy, muffled up to the eyes, and dragging after him an empty sled, while, sprawled on the snow in the background, is a little girl, and beneath the picture is inscribed the motto, "The girl I left behind me!" Another such egg is painted to represent the "sad sea waves," and standing on the beach are two little figures, the familiar boy and girl with "What are the wild waves saying?"

One of the subjects which is puzzling our Legislature just now is the petition for the amendment of the divorce laws, which are of such a nature in this commonwealth of ours that a meeting was held, a society formed, and a petition framed and sent to the State House by a large number of clergymen and others, praying that the laws concerning divorce might be greatly modified and restricted. Hearings were given before the committee to whom the matter was referred, and of course a great deal more was asked for by these would-be reformers, than was possible to be gained, or than they probably looked to gain. But the committee have fixed, I understand, on something of a compromise, and will recommend in their report, to be rendered soon, some important changes, among them is the one that all divorces shall be only nisi, to become absolute in six months; that the party against whom the decree is granted shall not marry within a year afterwards, but may then marry without the leave of Court (which must now be obtained in certain cases); that the court may cause any libel to be continued at its discretion; and most severe of all, and probably most effective, that every decree granted for a criminal offence shall be followed by a criminal prosecution by the District Attorney!

Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co. are publishing some of the best literature that is given to the public of late. It is almost safe to assume that you have read Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's last story, brought out by this house, "A Fair Barbarian," for it is quite the novel of the season, but I didn't read it until last night. It deals with that puzzling conundrum, the American girl abroad, in the dainty and pure but bright and sparkling manner that is so characteristic of this writer, who has the rare gift of understanding and depicting character in its most natural possible phases, instead of giving those cold, spectral analyses of utterly impossible, imaginary beings, such as Henry James, Jr. delights in. The story itself wonderfully bright, alive and fascinating.

The first of a new series of anonymous stories, to be called the "Round Robin Series," is just out, or rather will be out in a day or two, and the initial volume, "A Nameless Nobleman," is well calculated to give the new series an excellent send off. It is a well written, finely conceived story, laid in France during the reign of Louis XIV. and in New England. Life in the gay, dissolute court in beautiful Provence, and in the new unformed Massachusetts colony is equally well portrayed, and the characteristics are excellently drawn, albeit the degree of culture, refinement and self-knowledge displayed by the New England maiden seems a trifle more than would have been looked for under the circumstances. But I haven't finished the story yet, and am hurrying this letter so as to get back to it. I am not yet ready to "guess" at the author, though I may be when I have finished it.

"Somebody's Neighbors" is the title given to a volume of a dozen sketches of New England life, by Rose Terry Cooke, which are almost as interesting as stories, and even more interesting—if the comparative may thus follow the superlative—as studies of some of the peculiar features of life and people in this out-of-the-way little northeastern corner of the Universe. Some of the "deacons" discussed between the covers of this book are making themselves heard in reply by proxy in the columns of the religious press of the day.

Some time out, but not yet noticed in these letters, is the volume of "Sketches and Reminiscenses of the Radical Club of Chestnut Street, Boston," edited by the hostess of the club, Mrs. John T. Sargent. I was told that I would be disappointed in the book, and I really was, to some degree, for although much is given I looked for a great deal more, such was the glorious opportunity. However, there is much in the book that could not be gained elsewhere. A great number of the valuable little essays and papers which have been read before the club are reproduced, such names being represented as John Greenleaf Whittier, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry James, Rev. C. A. Bartol, Oliver Wendell Holmes and many others, while the familiar little after-talks of the club are chattily given, quite as they are occur in the famous double parlors on Chestnut street.

The above-named books are all from Osgood's. Next to hand comes a little volume published by Dr. E. Tourjee, with a preface by the publisher to the American edition, entitled, "Advice to Singers, by a Singer." Within less than a hundred pages is contained a rare store of exceedingly valuable information, never before put in print, concerning the methods and traditions of the Italian vocal school, its technical and physiological requisites, its laws of hygiene and its artistic aim. Withal, it is pleasingly written, and will prove an invaluable aid to all vocal societies.

From D. Lothrop comes the second volume of "Lothrop's Library of Entertaining History," of which "India" was the first, "Egypt" being the present one. The book of nearly 500 pages is lavishly supplied with illustrations throughout, and is written in a most truly entertaining, readable style by the author, Clara Erskine Clemont. She treats the wonderfully fascinating subject with which she has to deal in a manner fully worthy of it, and, having spent many years in Egypt, it is no an unknown land to the author. The book is carefully edited by Arthur Gilman, M. A., in whose care this series of history lies.

An Affecting Meeting.

From the New York Times.

Twenty and odd years ago, when the South was on the point of declaring war against the Union, there were few men who had more intimate social and personal relations with the Cotton State representatives than had Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania. He was in most respects entirely unlike them, yet in some things he was a man after their own heart. He was quick of action, strong willed and plain spoken. For these traits he was admired by the Southerners. But most of all, they liked him for his social qualities, and many an evening after the heat of political debate was over he sat with Jeff Davis, Yulee and the rest peacefully, though none the less earnestly, discussing the great questions which were then agitating the country. Two years ago, in his own quite home at Donegall, the veteran statesmen, while discussing those old days and the friends he had known in them, said impressively to a correspondent of the Times who was with him: "It's very sad to think that we were all so badly broken up and separated by the troubles of the war. I wish very much that we could all meet again in the old way. I would give a good deal to see some of the Southern Senators I used to know at that time." At least one part of Gen. Cameron's wish has been gratified. During his southern trip he met more than one of his old associates. His interview with Yulee was particularly affecting. It was in Fernandina, Fla., that they met. Cameron, hale, strong, erect and hearty, despite his unusually long lifetime of activity add toil, was standing with a number of friends when a man, bent, old, worn, and, though still firm upon his feet, plainly showed his 80 years, came toward him, saying, "Senator Cameron, I am delighted to welcome you to Florida." "Why, Lord bless me, it's Yulee!" exclaimed the Pennsylvania Nestor, cordially holding out his hand. The Southerner took it, grasped it warmly, and, much affected, said: "We have not met since I left the Senate." It was true that grasp of hands united two old friends who had not seen each other for more than twenty years. That they made the best of the three or four hours which they were subsequently able to spend together no one who knows the kindly character of the two men will doubt. It would be well for the country if many other friendships of the same sort could be cemented between the younger men of the North and South.

THE HOUSE RENT BOOM.

Particulars of the Unprecedented Rise Now Going On.

Houses Up From 10 to 30 Per Cent—May 1st, Last Day—Examples of Old and New Rents.

There are few house-renters in St. Louis who need to read a newspaper to learn that rents are going up very rapidly here this spring. They have found it out either last month or this, when they received a 30 days' notice to vacate. "There never was anything like it known before in the history of real estate," said a prominent real estate agent yesterday. "I suppose that nine-tenths of all the dwellings houses of the city have been or will be raised in rent by the 1st of May." "It is a genuine rent-boom" said another, "and extends all through the East and West." The cause generally assigned for this is the general return of prosperity in the country. In New York the accepted day for Spring cleaning or Spring moving is the 1st of May, and hence the 1st of May has been chosen by all the real estate owners as the day for the increase of the rent. In St. Louis it is somewhat different and no general time has been agreed upon. A few began to raise their rents last fall and have kept it up steadily as fast as leases ran out. Many others made the change on the 1st of April, giving notice on the 1st of March, and still others have let the change go until the 1st of May. Of course it makes a tenant more or less dissatisfied to raise his rent, but in the present instance there seems to be no way to resist it. As all the houses have gone up it is useless to move. If a tenant can't pay the advance he will have to move into a poorer house. One of the best known real estate agents in the city, and who has the rental of several hundred houses on his hands, said that he made a general increase or rents on the 1st of April on houses of from 6 to 9 rooms, and that not a single tenant had moved. His increase was he said from ten to twenty-five per cent, according to the desirableness of the house.

A call was made by the reporter upon a number of the real estate men and their views obtained. They differed chiefly in their opinion of the percentage of increase. One said from 10 to 15 per cent., another from 10 to 20 per cent, and so on up to 30 per cent, which was the highest. In exceptionable cases an increase has been made of from 40 to 50 per cent. Without exception the agents say that the increase is almost entirely confined to houses ranging from six to nine rooms, for the reason that such houses are the only ones particularly in demand. "We have'nt increased our ten, twelve and fourteen room houses," said one agent, "for the reason that if we did we might have a house left vacant on our hands. But with the middle class of houses the demand in good localities exceeds the supply." Another agent said that he had nearly 800 houses to be let the 1st of May at a generally increased rent, and if he had more he could fill them. The general prosperity seems to have driven many young families out of boarding houses (and living with their father-in-law) into keeping house in a modest way. Such desire small, but neat houses. The manner in which the notice of increase of rent is given is the same with all the agents. They send a regular thirty day "notice to vacate" to the tenant, but down at the bottom is a postscript saying that the owner would like to make a new contract with the tenant at a given increased rent, and that the notice to vacate will only operate in case such a contract is not made. On receiving the notice he indignantly declares that he will not stand it, but on deliberation and inquiry among his neighbors he concludes that he will have to. Consequently there is not much more moving going on in the city this spring than last, and the glad day of the furniture car driver has not yet come.

There is no general increase in store rentals in the city except upon Main and Second streets where rents have been excessively depressed for several years, or ever since the Washington avenue and Fifth street fever broke out among the wholesale merchants. The general increase along Main and Second street is from 30 to 50 per cent. For instance, a store which once brought $3,000 a year has been renting for $600, but now it is raised to $1,200. Another that brought $6,000 and has been renting at $1,500, has been increased to $3,000. Property owners along these streets are quite cheerful once more.

Societies that rent halls and rooms by the quarter have been generally notified of an increase of $5 from the 1st of April.

In order that tenants may see how general is the rise in rents and that they have been served no worse than others the following examples of former rent and present rent have been obtained at some little trouble. They are selected from various quarters of the city and from old and new houses:

EASTER SATURDAY.

Distribution of Easter Water, Blessing the Triple Candle and other Catholic Ceremonies.

The devotions of Holy Week were closed to-day in the Catholic churches with solemn and impressive ceremonies. All the celebrations indulged in to-day anticipates the mystery of the resurrection which is commemorated to-morrow. They typify the rising of Christ from the tomb and the blessings of this awakening cast upon the world. At the churches mass was celebrated at an early hour and was followed by the rites incident or peculiar to the day.

The first act following mass is the blessing of the holy fire. The fire is contained in a thurifer and the custom is commemorative of the fire that was kept in the temple at Jerusalem. Following this the temple candle is blessed. This candle with its three branches exemplifies the Trinity, and the light is used to denote Christ, the light of the world. The blessing is a long and curious ceremony, and requires considerable time for its performance. The next ceremony is the blessing of what is called the "paschal candle." This wax candle, which is nearly four feet in height and two inches in diameter, and beautifully decorated and stained, is said by Church writers to denote Christ himself. Before it is lighted it indicates the darkness that envelops the world while the Savior was in the tomb, and the lighting of it typifies the splendor of the resurrection. During the blessing of the candle five large grains of incense are inserted in it, denoting the aromatic spices with which the body of Christ was embalmed for burial. When the candle has been blessed, it is solemnly lighted from the sacred fire, and all the lights in the church are then ignited from the paschal candle to typify the scripture statement that Christ is the resurrection and light of the world. The last ceremony of the morning in Catholic Churches was the blessing of the baptismal font, and the water used for baptisms. In several of the churches huge tubs of water were placed inside the door. The priest, surrounded by assistants, and acolytes, blessed the water with solem ceremonies. The water, when so blessed, is known as "Easter Water," and is carried away by the faithful. Most of the female members of the congregation who attended the mass, carried buckets, bottles or other vessels, and these were filled by the priest and attendants, and will be treasured up during the year, many Catholics regarding the water as an almost universal panacea. A portion of the water thus blessed is submitted to further consecration before it is applied to baptismal purposes. The additional ceremonies which it undergoes consist in pouring into it the holy oil and the sacred chrism, first separately and then together, the operation being accompanied by prayers and invocations. The water is then locked up in the baptismal font and is used for baptisms for the ensuing year, no other water being used save in cases of emergency. This was the concluding ceremony of the week, the afternoon being occupied in confessions and other preparations for the proper celebration of Easter. The other denominations make no special celebration on Easter Saturday.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

New Policy Adopted by the Police in Treating With the Vice.

Without any ostentation the police have adopted a new policy toward the social evil, which, while it does not contemplate eradications, aims to regulate the vice in respect to locality and to put a check on certain loud and impudent features. Piano pounding and fiddle scraping in the parlors of these places, whereby the foolish passer-by was lured into the den, has been stopped entirely. Along Chestnut street and the more frequented streets the frail have received warning that their bold and notorious solicitation of passers-by will be no longer tolerated, and there has been a marked improvement in the morals of the pavement at least. Wherever complaint is made of these houses being located in respectable neighborhoods the occupants are being forced to move into localities wholly surrendered to depravity. Last night Capt. Kennett and a couple of special officers raided No. 616 St. Charles street. The house had only been running a week, but its character had become apparent to the Salvage Corps and the merchants doing business over the way, and they had protested. The officers in citizens' attire visited the house, and after obtaining sufficient evidence, took every man and woman they could find to the station. The women cried and begged for mercy. After their names had been taken and a promise had been extracted that they would move away within a couple of days, Captain Kennett exercised clemency and turned them loose. He holds the evidence against them, and unless they keep their promise to vacate, will have them arrested and prosecuted under the case thus made. If they move, he says, the object of the raid will be accomplished better and with less trouble then by sending them to court. Among the male visitors at the place were two young molders equipped with revolvers to defend themselves against the strikers, and furnished with permits from Mayor Overstolz to carry the "guns." The permits, however, had run past the limit of time, and the youngsters go before the Police Court for having concealed weapons. Another of the male companions was a well-dressed clerk who implored that his name should not get into the new papers. A fourth was a stout Englishman who sported a silk hat and wore the best of clothes and an abundance of jewelry. With tears in his eyes he explained that he "'adn't been in the bloody town but 'alf an 'our, you know, and 'ere 'e was in the station 'ouse." The clerk and the Englishman were allowed to go, after a warning, and were two very grateful men.

CROOKED APPLIANCES.

Some Account of the Apparatus Used by Professional Gamblers.

In these degenerate days the man who lives by his wits, or rather by the absence of wits in others, firmly convinces himself that his crooked mask is as legitimate a business as the sale or manufacture of boots or cigars. The person less acute than himself he considers his client by right. In opening a bunko shop or skin game of faro he calculates under the head of possible losses the amount of fines that he shall pay the law, whose prejudice against his vocation, he deprecates earnestly. Much is said of "square" faro games. An old gambler said the other day that there were not twenty such in the country. The systematic robbing of the victims to the gambling mania is of such extent as to actually require the existence of several establishments for the manufacture of so-called sporting goods. A POST-DISPATCH reporter a day or two ago secured possession of the confidential price list and circular of a Chicago house, sent to a member of the "sporting" fraternity of this city. Calmly quoted as if they were canned goods or hardware, under the various heads, are legitimate and crooked apparatus. The price of a German silver dealing box is given at $10. Top, end or lever always on hand. These are palpably what are known as "hog boxes." "Top, end or lever" are three varieties. Gamblers speak of them as "top squeeze," or "end squeeze," the boxes being so made that when an extra pressure is applied the slot through which the cards are dealt is enlarged sufficiently to permit the dealing of two cards at once. The "lever" easily controlled by the thumb of the dealer, guarantees the same result. The circular announces that dealing boxes of any description will be made to order or repaired. Dealing cards of any description, steel punches for marking faro cards, and gloss paper "superior to sand," are other specialties in this branch. It seems that a crooked dealing box for "black and red gambler" described as "to lock and unlock," costs the enterprising burglar a matter of $30. Under the head of dice games, "bunko charts" for "special drawing" are quoted at $10. Ivory dice for top and bottom, three pair with "ringer," cost seventy-five cents each. A full set of loaded dice, three high, three low, three fair, will stand the "crook" $10. Then came a freshet of apparatus for confidence games, which the manufacture calls "short games." In this department are found "monte tickets" or "broods," patent knives with lock for $3, or improved patent knife twice that amount. This is a familiar confidence racket. "Tobacco boxes to lock or unlock," "patent safes with two openings," "trick padlocks per pair," "Jersey game complete," "sliding boxes for street work," used by fakirs who seemingly put a ten-dollar bill into a soap box and then offer to sell it for twenty-five cents, "best hold out with improvements" for cheating at poker, "sleeve hold out" for same, "table hold out, something new, works with the knee," and "the brig" for holding out an extra card, are also quoted at from 75 cents to $20. A "shiner" for reading cards dealt by opponents, being a pair of reflecting lenses concealed in a silver half-dollar, is also urged as something new. Fifteen varieties of marked back cards, with the key to these marks, "strippers" for any short game cut to order, monte cards, cut and prepared, and Mexican monte cards, are other features of this remarkable price list. With scientifically-arranged appliances in the hand of the gambler, the "yokel" who expects to make money by trusting to luck would not seem to stand a brilliant show for success.

The Birth of a Kangaroo.

From the New York Sun.

Just after Mr. Barnum had retired from the ring in the Madison Square Garden on Monday evening, where he had announced to an applauding audience his return from Florida in robust health, Mr. J. A. Bailey came running in from the menagerie to see him. A few words were spoken and then Mr. Barnum hurried out after Mr. Bailey. Those who were privileged to follow the two showmen soon found themselves in front of the kangaroo cage. Inside of the cage a pair of animals balanced themselves on their hind legs and stout tails as upon three-legged stools, and gazed out upon the gathering group with mild-eyed speculation. Apparently there was no other occupant.

"When was it born, John?" asked Mr. Barnum of the keeper.

"I don't know," said John. "I discovered it only about five minutes ago."

While the keeper was speaking the concealed mouth of pouch, midway between the fore and the hind legs of the mother, opened, and a clear-cut, sharp-featured kangaroo face appeared. The slim neck was turned toward the visitors, and two little black, speculative eyes began a study of the situation. This was the only part of itself that it ventured to show. From the top of its head to its nostrils was about two inches. The mother's head was about six inches long.

When the throng which had crowded the amphitheatre pressed through the menagerie on its way to the street the news was soon spread from one to another, and the happy parents held a numerously attended levee, but the infant, frightened by the noise and numbers, insisted for the most part on keeping its chamber. Mr. Bailey says that this is the only kangaroo ever born in this country, except one in Cincinnati, the mother of which had just been brought from Australia. That one lived only a few days, but the parents of this one are both tame and acclimated, and Mr. Bailey believes they will raise it.

An Interesting Relic.

Staunton, (Va.) Cor. New York Sun.

An old walnut cabinet of antique style has been discovered in the store of Frank Ware, a second-hand furniture dealer in this place In moving the desk Ware's eye fell upon an inscription which read as follows: "To Geo. Washington by D. Webster, in year 1777; and in another place: "Ye desk was presented to Geo. Washington in ye year of ye Lord 1777 by D. Webster." The inscription is quite distinct except the "D" preceding Webster. The cabinet was bought recently at a sale of the effects of the widow of the late Samuel Clark, a former mayor of Staunton. It is about three feet long and one deep, and stands on four slender, crooked legs. A drawer runs the whole length of the cabinet at the top, and there are smaller shallow ones beneath this with old fashioned brass handles. It has been ascertained that Samuel Clark married a daughter of Sampson Matthews, who kept the first tavern in Staunton, which was a rendezvous for Continental soldiers. Gen. Matthews a brother of the tavern-keeper, was a friend of Gen. Washington, and was Governor of Georgia after the war. The old desk evidently passed from Gen. Washington into the hands of Gen. Matthews, and so into his brother's family. Its identity is much strengthened by the strong resemblance between the inscription upon it and the handwriting of Washington as seen upon an old autograph letter of his, which has been hunted up and compared with it. The Historical Society of Virginia will purchase the cabinet and present it to the Mount Vernon Association.

Hurricane in Australia.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

A disastrous hurricane was experienced on January 6 and 7 at Ashburton River, on the northwest coast of Australia. Three Europeans and several natives are known to be drowned, and the casualties among the pearling fleet in that neighborhood are terrible. Twelve vessels were either hopelessly shattered and cast upon the beach, or lifted bodily up the mangrove creeks. Upward of $5,000 worth of pearls and shells were lost. It is supposed that a tidal wave accompanied the storm, as an immense body of water washed over the coast a long distance, throwing up fish and turtle, and completely changing the conformation of the country.

One of the most severe hurricanes that have ever visited the Fiji group was experienced at Levuka on the second of February, and caused a vast amount of destruction on shore and much damage in Levuka harbor. It commenced at east, but blew the fiercest from north, and finally abated at northwest on the morning of the third, at 2 o'clock. Numbers of residences in the town were unroofed, among them the children's school house. The destruction to banana and cocoanut trees was very great.

Lieut. Doane of the Howgate Expedition Presents an Ironical Report.

St. Paul Correspondence Chicago Times.

ST. PAUL, MINN., April 4.—Lieut. Doane, of the department of Dakota, has made a voluminous report of his experience and observations in the arctic regions as a member of the Howgate expedition. It is a fine piece of satire, and will be appreciated as such. His summary of the success of the expedition is unique. He says: "The cruise of the Gulnare is the first acknowledged failure in arctic annals We did but little, but left a great many things undone requiring some moral courage to refrain from doing. We did not change the names of all the localities visited, as is customary, nor give them new latitudes, to the bewilderment of the general reader. We do not dispute any one's attained distance, nor declare it impossible that he should have been where he was. We did not hunt up nameless islands and promontories to tag them with the surnames of plethoric merchants and wildly enthusiastic females who had given us plug tobacco and button-hole boquets. We did not even erect a cenotaphs. A cenotaph is a monument erected to one who is buried elsewhere or not buried at all. The artistic style for such a structure is a pile of rocks, on the flattest of which is daubed in letters of tar the following stereotyped inscription: 'Sacred to the memory of the heroic——.' Why a cenotaph should be erected where no one will see it, and what use there is in erecting one at all, are questions. We received no flags, converted no natives, killed no one. We discovered no new evidence regarding the Mosaic account of the creation, nor the deluge, nor the unity of races, nor the location of ancient Troy, nor the Garden of Eden. We found nothing in Greenland to put our naturalists to the blush by comparison, nothing superior to railroads and modern civilization. We did not see anything half so grand, half so sublime, nor half so beautiful there as can be seen in the Yellowstone national park, and a dozen other localities at home. We did not even see what others have seen in the same regions.

"The primary geographical iceberg, which in perspective towers above first-class ships in the foreground, and has a contemplative bear gazing seaward from the loftiest pinnacle, oblivious of the heard of fat seals on its beach, is not produced any more. Neither is the iceberg of shop windows. The present ones are not so high by several hundred feet, and instead of being in a freezing condition were rapidly thawing whenever afloat. Polar bears do not put their paws on men's shoulders and smilingly offer their stomachs to be ripped open in the Norwegian regions, as formerly. The rocks and bluffs of the Arctic are not at all clouded with water-fowl, as pictured, nor is it dangerous to run a whale-boat lest it should ground on a sleeping whale, be pierced through by the horn of a narwhal, or captured by an angry herd of walrus. Arctic scenery is grand, but with little variety. The glacial phenomena alone in summer time are magnificent; in winter the auroras are added. At the pole during the summer there is, of course, constant daylight, yet nobody seems to have thought it worth while to call attention to the fact that solar observations could be taken astronomically during that season. No one has proposed wintering at the pole. The proposition would probably not be carried into effect if outlined. The object of this report is to expose a few of these specious pleas, fallacious reasonings and ill-grounded conjectures which are called scientific, and to place the subject of circumpolar exploration on a basis of facts and reasonable probabilities. One cannot explore the earth's surface from an observatory nor by mathematics, nor by the power of logic. It must be done physically."

The failure of the expedition as a Government venture is chiefly charged to the Gulnare. Its failure as a private project will doubtless be conceded as due to the same cause. The Lieutenant makes much sport of the scientific descriptions of the arctic animals. He says the seal is no more a pachyderm than the elk of our plains, or a yearling calf from our farms. The writer evidently has no patience with the claims made by many arctic explorers to be regarded as heroes and martyrs. He ruthlessly punctures all their professions.

The Somnolent Hun.

From the New York Sun.

John Gyumber, the young Hungarian who fell asleep in Allentown, Pa., just two months ago, still slumbers, though not so soundly. On April 8 he opened his eyes for the first time, and his system seemed to be undergoing a change, for his breath came in short gasps and with great difficulty, he threw up his arms with a convulsive movement, and the perspiration started from every pore. He soon became quiet, however, and sank again into a deep sleep, but his appearance was more natural and the doctors thought he was at the point of recovery. The case has excited much interest among the people in the neighborhood, and the local physicians have watched the sleeper with close attention. Dr. Baird, of this city, and Dr. Morton, of Philadelphia, have also made examinations. Attempts of all kinds, including the use of hot irons and electricity, have been made to arouse the patient, but without the slightest effect, aside from slight muscular twitchings.

A Landlord's Mistake.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Wm. B. Finney is the landlord of the Grape Hotel at Lancaster, Penn., once a famous hostelry which enjoyed the patronage of James Buchanan. He is a man of violent temper, and is now in trouble from the result of an assault upon Luther E. Hurd, a guest who paid his board in advance, but with whom Finney picked a quarrel because a companion had left without paying his bill, but promising to do so. Hurd died from the effects of the assault, and the companion who had gone away afterward returned and paid his bill. Finney is almost crazed at the outcome of the affair. He is in custody.

MILLINERY IN MINIATURE.

The Gorgeous Toilets to be Worn by the Children in "Cinderella."

"Cinderella" will be placed upon the stage at Mercantile Library Hall next week under the management of Mrs. Agnes Benton, assisted in the musical share of the work by Mrs. Joslyn, a most accomplished pianist and teacher of vocal and instrumental music. Over 300 children, whose names appear in the advertising columns, will participate in the performances of the fairy extravaganza. They have been trained untiringly by Mrs. Benton, who has succeeded in bringing them to a degree of perfection in their work that the public will not fail to appreciate. Beautiful toilets, new music, charming singing and magnificent spectacular effects will combine in making an entertainment that will delight all who witness it, and that will be particularly interesting to children. Some of the toilets are very elaborate and expensive; a few of them are reproduced here.

The minuet will be danced by eight tiny boys and girls, all of whom will wear white wigs, long white kid gloves, white kid slippers, with Louis XIV. buckles, high Mary Stuart ruchings and feather fans. Each will be dressed in colors to suit the mother's taste, but in keeping with the general ensemble.

Daisy Kinkead, one of the dancers, will wear a red satin skirt with shirred front; overdress of flowered brocade. Octavia Alexander, light blue satin quilted skirt and blue brocade overdress. Blanche Hall, toilet of lavender satin, richly trimmed with rows of scarlet fuchsias. Julia Lacarry, crimson satin skirt with ruffled front and brocade overdress. Eugene Hanlan, lavender satin coat and vest with silver trimming, white satin knee breeches, pink silk stockings, flesh-colored gloves, buckle shoes of Louis XIV. style. Adolph Guibert, pink satin suit with silver trimmings. Sigmund Jacobi, brocade suit with gold trimmings.

Stella Perrier, the Cinderella of Monday night, will wear a lovely dress of white satin, ruffled down the entire front, the ruffles being bound together with cords of silver.

Delia Fox, the Cinderella of Tuesday night, has a charming little toilet of pink satin, white overdress and garniture of trailing vines of pink roses.

Corinne Boyd, the third Cinderella, will wear a cream-colored satin ball toilet profusely trimmed with flowers, pearls and lace; white kid slippers.

Master Charles Warner Ford, one of the Prince Poppettis, will be beautifully attired, his coat and pants being rose-colored satin elaborately trimmed with gold lace: vest of brocaded white satin and gold trimmings; cap of rose-colored satin trimmed with gold lace, white ostrich feather and diamond crescent; flesh-colored kid gloves and silk hose; black slippers with gold buckles.

Alex. Singer, another Prince Poppette, is to appear in a costume of red satin trimmed with gold bangles; three cornered hat with feather and buckle shoes.

Little Miss Louie Thompson, a fairy queen, will wear a dress of white tarletan covered with spun gold and silver; silver cloak, beautiful head dress; flesh-colored silk stockings and white kid gloves.

Ottoline Oberbeck, a seven-year-old, who is to deliver an opening address written expressly for her, will appear in a beautiful white gros grain silk dress trimmed with blue silk.

Emma Oberbeck's dress will be of white cashmere trimmed with dark silk.

Julia Moore, who sings the multeer song from La Perichole, will wear a gorgeous Spanish costume formed of a combination of gold beads, tinkling beads and bright colored material.

Maude Colby, who will lead the fairy throng, will look charming as a tiny elf in a dress of white tarletan sprinkled with shining flakes of glass.

Ella H. Beers, one of the Clorindas, has two splendid toilets—the first a green cashmere, morning robe en train, skirt and vest of cherry colored silk with lace garniture. The second dress has a pink satin front with pearl embroidery; the robe is of cream colored velvet with wateau plaits, the panier festooned with crushed roses, the corsage cut square in the neck and heavily trimmed with Valenciennes lace and pearls; the train trimmed with pink marabout.

Little Dick Hollywood, no bigger than Tom Thumb, will wear a claw-hammer coat and full suit of black broadcloth—in fact a costume de rigeur—in the courtship scene in which he plays.

Master Johnny Parle, who is to sing "Monantz," will appear in a regulation police uniform.

The New Law Governing Saloon Licenses.

The new ordinance which prohibits the granting of licenses to saloons kept in connection with brothels, and which was passed with special reference to the dago dens or coop houses, has gone into effect. The most of the licenses held by this class of saloons expire in a few days, many of them during the coming week, and the proprietors are in hopeless disgust. With a strong Church man like N. C. Hudson for collector, whose wife is very prominent in the ladies' temperance and Sabbath movement, and a Police Board of Methodistic inclination, there is no room for expecting anything other than the strictest interpretation of the new law.

THE Anchor Line steamers were built and are run with the single object in view of meeting the wants of the business public, and not for the purpose of racing or catering to the desires or acquirements of that class of idle gossipers who find their chief employment in feeding on meaningless sensations. Both of these companies are amply able to put afloat the fastest boats ever constructed and to run them, too; and it is quite probable that when they make up their minds to go into the racing business they will do so. This reporter has been impelled to write this paragraph after reading an account of an encounter of speed between the City of Alton and Guiding Star.

NEW ORLEANS Democrat: The Charles P. Chouteau, having closed another successful season in the Memphis and Bends trade, leaves us to-day for St. Louis, where, after a short season between that city and this under the auspices of the Anchor Line, she will be laid up to receive the customary repairs preparatory to another season's business in the trade in which she has won so much renown and given so much satisfaction. The Chouteau arrived here on her first trip December 3, 1877; since that date she has made forty-seven trips in the Memphis and Bends trade, and brought to this city the grand total of 233,267 bales of cotton, 81 bags seed cotton, 231,228 sacks cotton seed, 46,513 sacks oil cake, 5,058 sacks oil cake meal, 3,363 barrels of cotton seed oil and 6,434 staves. During this season (included in the above), commencing September 29, 1880, she has made thirteen trips, bringing 76,958 bales cotton, 2 bags seed cotton, 30,088 sacks cotton seed, 15,335 sacks oil cake, and 209 barrels oil, 5,068 bales more than she had brought any of her four seasons. Good fortune has been with this staunch and faithful boat from the first, for on not one of her 47 trips, and they have averaged 4,963 bales, 4,919 sacks seed, 989 sacks oil cake, 107 sacks meal and 72 barrels oil to the trip, has she ever met with an accident of any kind, for which the credit is mainly due to her experienced and prudent commander, Capt. W. H. Thorwegan, and his efficient and well-selected crew, principal among whom is Mr. George Miltenberger, chief clerk, a gentleman who is always found at his post of duty, and uniformly correct and courteous in his dealings with all having business with his boat, and who has been ably assisted by his partners, Messrs. Peter Wirtz and George Seibert.

The Chouteau is 300 feet long, 54 feet beam, 78 feet extreme width and 8 feet depth of hold. This season she has contributed $1,392 20 to the coffers of our rapacious city in the matter of wharfage, and $5,890 50 since she first landed here, she having made eight trips to St. Louis.

PERSONAL—To Mrs. Grundy, and she is profiting by it—The word "Singer" is the name of a very popular sewing-machine, and of all the machines sold, three out of every five are of this kind. You must know that since the patents expired in 1877, anybody has a right to make these machines; but until the United States Court decided that the name "Singer" is common property, the name Singer was arrogated by one company, thus preventing honest competition. And the fact is that Singer Sewing-Machines, far superior to those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, have been on the market for five years, which have been grossly and maliciously misrepresented as "spurious and bogus imitations," etc., because they were offered for less money; and because canvassers and peddlers told them so, the people believed these machines really were inferior, without stopping to reason for themselves. I give my word for it that the Singer Machines manufactured by THE STEWART MANUFACTURING COMPANY are superior to the Singer Company's make. I know them both. I have sold 25,000 of the "Stewarts," with a guarantee in the drawer of each, and bearing no complaint I refer with confidence to those who use them. Having just gained a legal victory to the right to use the name "Singer," I propose to give the public the benefit of it. I invite them to see it, and to buy the $55 machine for $20 cash, until May; or on time, $10 down and $1 per month for balance. I will cheerfully refund the money to any customer not satisfied with the bargain. John L. Stanage, 114 N. Sixth st.

SINGER SEWING MACHINES, manufactured by the Stewart Manufacturing Co., are the best, and now is the time to buy. Until May 1 the $55 machine will be sold for $20 cash; or on time, $10 down and $1 per month; warranted new and first-class in every sense. The price is in consequence of the United States Court decision, March 21. During the past three and one-half years I have sold 25,000 of these machines, and I do not know of a solitary instance where the purchaser is not perfectly happy. But the improved high-arm "New Stewart" will actually cure the most obstinate case of melancholy. It makes everybody smile but my competitors.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis.
In the Circuit Court, City of St. Louis, April Term, 1881.
Saturday, April 16, 1881.
Anna C. Baumberger
vs.
Jacob B. Baumberger.

It appearing from the petition and affidavit this day filed herein that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Missouri, therefore, on motion of plaintiff, by attorney, it is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant on the grounds that the defendant wilfully and without just cause or provocation absented himself from and deserted the plaintiff, and for more than one year last past has wilfully and without just cause remained absent from the plaintiff, and unless he appear at the term of this Court to be begun and held at the City of St. Louis, on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof, answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis POST-DISPATCH, a newspaper printed and published in the City St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.
Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court, City of St. Louis, this 16th day of April, 1881.
CHAS. F. VOGEL, Clerk.

The POST-DISPATCH has much the largest BONA FIDE circulation ever attained by any afternoon paper in St. Louis; it has a larger city circulation than any morning paper in St. Louis (except one); its receipts for circulation by carriers are ten times as large, and it sells twenty times as many papers on the streets, by news-boys, as all other afternoon publications combined.

THERE is a strong probability that the weather will be favorable for the Easter bonnet show to-morrow.

WE have the solemn announcement from New York that Mr. EDISON has perfected his Electric light again. This is the seventeenth perfection.

OUR Fourth street contemporary is growing more and more mercenary. Its motto: "Down with the dust!" means cash payments, we presume.

THE floods from the upper rivers are pouring out, but the Mississippi at this point shows a disposition to stand firm and there is no danger just now of a damaging freshet.

IT may be amusing for the Republican to speak of the "little P.-D.," but we submit that our contemporary displays bad taste. The superficial area of the POST-DISPATCH may not be quite so great as that of the Republican, but the circulation is much larger.

THE editor of the Spectator is starting in to lay the dust on Page and Lindell avenues this summer. We made a heroic effort in that direction last year, and it is our candid opinion now that the job is entirely too big for a journal that only makes its appearance every seven days.

THE rather pleasurable information that J. MILTON TURNER is about to take up his abode in the wilds of Oklohama is somewhat dashed by the announcement that SITTING BULL is contemplating an early return to the United States. Thus ever in this world of ours death and disappointment follow close upon the trail of joy.

THERE is a weekly paper published in London called the Cuckoo, which is accused of stealing editorial articles from American newspapers. If the manager of this predatory English institution wishes to carry on his nefarious business without fear of detection, he should manage to get hold of some of the copies of the St. Louis Republican occasionally and ravage its surreptitious editorial page.

A BIG strike among the street car-drivers and conductors of Cincinnati is in progress. Yesterday the city was virtually without transportation. The police and authorities are in sympathy with the strikers and the companies are not permitted to send out cars in charge of new drivers and conductors. Men who have been working seventeen hours daily for $1 47 demand $2, and boys who have been acting as conductors for 85 cents a day demand $1 25.

THE Cincinnati Gazette has brought its wearisome review of MCCLELLAN'S campaigns to a close, and the care-worn General in his Jersey home can once more sit down and play with his babies in contentment. If the enlightened military critic of the Gazette is not pressed for time we would like to have his opinion of the campaign of JOSHUA against the town of Ai. The operations of JOSHUA were highly successful, but we have always held to the opinion that he violated some of commonest and most primitive rules of war. We would like to have the point settled.

EVERYBODY is looking to the administration of Mayor FILLEY-EWING for reform in the matter of street paving. He is expected to break up the odious macadam ring and keep the streets clean. We are glad to see that the organ of the administration is giving its undivided attention to this matter. St. Louis can never be a metropolitan city until it is provided with good streets, and we can never have good streets so long as we continue to sprinkle them with rotten limestone. All the enlightened statesmanship of the city should be directed to this street problem.

FROM the New Haven Palladium we learn that ASHER P. SMITH, of Lebanon, Conn., has made many enemies among his neighbors by painting his house red, with green trimmings and maroon-colored blinds. This is the true spirit of Puritanism. Naturally a man employing such gaudy colors in the decoration of his home would be expected to offend correct taste, but in New England, where there is neither tolerance in religion nor æsthetics, a man who shows originality and contempt for the established order of things by placing green trimmings on a red house incurs the enmity of every neighbor who lives in a regulation domicile. Of course Mr. SMITH will be persecuted. His wife will be cut by the ladies of her set, and if he is a dealer in seed-onions he will be likely to discover soon a great falling off in his patronage. New England has "idears" and they must be respected.

WE have evidently struck the era of the animal drama. This week an intelligent horse, known professionally as "James Melville," has been playing a fairly successful engagement at one of our theaters. If he had been better supported he might have placed himself on a level with some of the bipeds who go "starring" about the country. From the lithographs in the windows we learn that next week a couple of dogs will appear at Pope's in a new arrangement of "The Corsican Brothers." If some enlightened manager could surround a cat and a canary bird with a good play his fortune would be made. There are suggestions about a combination of this kind that would certainly shake the giddy public.

OUR able-bodied voting citizens were so much absorbed at the election on the 5th in knocking the political life out of Mr. OVERSTOLZ that they entirely forgot the Charter Amendments. Only 13,000 votes were cast for and against. As three-fifths of all the voters who patronize the ballot box on the day set apart for this sort of entertainment are required to pass on a proposed amendment to the charter, a lot of able lawyers have given their opinion that the election was a misfit, so to speak, and Mayor FILLEY-EWING has officially declared that the amendments were not adopted. A few more should be concocted and then the entire lot should be voted on at an early special election. If the KNAPPS could be persuaded to keep quiet and repress any anxiety that they might feel, it would be possible to bring out the requisite number of votes, the weather favoring.

QUITE a humorous effort is being made by a little, one-eyed, starveling penny sheet to attack the business of the POST-DISPATCH under the name of a supposititious Trades Assembly and by means of anonymous circulars. We should hardly be expected to say these circulars are a tissue of absurd falsehoods. It is not an easy matter to prove the authorship of an anonymous circular in this great and free country of ours, where anybody can print any lie on anybody he pleases at any time of the day or night, but our nearest approach to the mystery was the unearthing of one godfather in the person of a vagabond who is now serving a term in the Illinois Penitentiary. Our readers will believe us when we say that we pay our compositors within a slight fraction of the arbitrary scale established by the Union, and pay them about $25,000 per annum—which is twice as much as was ever expended by an afternoon paper in St. Louis. We pay our reporters and employes better wages than are paid by any other afternoon paper in the United States. Our printers make good wages where they are possessed of reasonable skill and are disposed to work steadily, and perfect contentment reigns in our composing-room. Everybody is happy about the POST-DISPATCH office, so far as we know and the only growling we hear comes from those who envy our prosperity.

IN a recent number of the Louisville Courier-Journal, an alleged Democratic organ, we find a powerful editorial on the subject of STANLEY MATTHEWS, the distinguished Returning Board Statesman who is now hanging by the gills in the United States Senate in connection with a nomination as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. The article is especially directed at the people who figure under the general head of "STANLEY MATTHEW'S Assailants." It is alleged that certain railroad organs, railroad lawyers and nincompoop newspapers in the South, all classified as Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart, are "barking at the coat-tail of this eminent lawyer and citizen." As Mr. MATTHEWS is simply a railway lawyer himself, we are at a loss to understand why he should be harried by other railway lawyers and organs unless it be that he has stirred up bitter rivalries in his time, but there is no trouble about explaining the devotion of the Courier-Journal to the eminent Radical schemer. Mr. WATTERSON, who edits the Courier-Journal, when he is not engaged in managing the great Democratic party, is a nephew of MATTHEWS. Naturally he regards his kinsman as an "eminent lawyer and citizen." Blood is thicker than water, even when strengthened with an infusion of Bourbon whisky, and Mr. WATTERSON would feel highly honored if he could point to his uncle setting on the wool-sack of the Supreme Court, stroking his oily beard and ruminating on the Fugitive Slave Law, under which, as a Democratic Marshal in Ohio, he used to catch and return runaway negroes. It is understood that Mr. MATTHEWS regards Mr. WATTERSON as the most talented editor in the United States. If confirmed as Associate Justice he might be able to establish a connection between the Louisville organ of Democracy and the man in the White House, which would be valuable, perhaps, in the peddling out of patronage south of the Ohio River. We have some lofty politics in this country.

THE humane effort of the POST-DISPATCH to reform the prison management of this State naturally brings an attack from the feudal Republican—the defender of the whipping-post, the slave pen, witch-burning, the trial by fire and the Grecian system of measurements. It is assumed that we have just heard of the cruelties which are practiced upon the wretches in the State prison, and our indignation enables the clumsy, fat-witted clown of the Republican to work off again his ancient stock joke, so popular with the Crusaders in the Twelfth century, about the man who rushed out and assaulted the first Hebrew that he met on hearing of the crucifixion of his Savior. As our newspaper reading is not confined exclusively to the St. Louis Republican, we manage, after a fashion, to keep up with the news. We have been aware for some time of the barbarism in our Penitentiary, but we supposed that the investigation of the Legislative committee last winter, while reaching no definite action, had been sufficient to put a stop to some of the more pronounced brutalities of Bulldozer BRADBURY. The whipping-post is still maintained in the prison, and we are trying to induce Gov. CRITTENDEN to use his influence to abolish the degrading institution. The Republican's idea that the whipping of prisoners should be kept up because the custom was established in 1808, or about the time that it began to spread its black wings of ignorance and prejudice over the State, is truly KNAPPOLIAN. We do not happen to belong to the school of philosophers who hold that an abuse ought to be respected and maintained if it happens to have its roots attached to the muck-heap of antiquity. There was a time when the Saxon claimed the right to fasten his leather collar on men as white and fully as intelligent as those who edit the Republican. Some rude, hair-brained reformer finally broke up that system. There was a time in this country when men were placed in prison to rot because they happened, like some newspaper publishers of the present era, to be unable to pay their debts. Some irreverent agitators put a stop to that fine old custom. Since 1808, and long prior to that period, men, women and children were sold and hawked about and held in slavery in this country because their skins were black, and yet this time-honored institution was wiped out by a generation totally lacking in respect for the sins and vices of its ancestors. Notwithstanding the ancient precedents that Mr. BRADBURY is able to cite in defense of his right to beat and maltreat prisoners, we hope to live to see the bloody raw-hide discarded as an element of reform in our State Prison.

A Shot at the Labor Commissioner.

ST. LOUIS, April 16, 1881.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Our attention has been called to an article in your paper on the "Truck System," taken from the annual report of W. H. Hilkene, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics of State of Missouri, and all we have to say of the report is, that if all the other portions of his report is as devoid of truth as that just referring to the Higginsville coal operators "only paying their miners in truck out of their store," then the whole report is a base fabrication, unbecoming the lowest and meanest falsifier.

The truth is that the Higginsville Coal companies have no stores, and they pay their miners every two weeks in cash at their offices. How such a report could be made by an officer of the State can only be explained by his unwillingness to seek correct information on the subject. You will confer a favor by the publication of this letter.

Accelerated Economics.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The chap that runs the ticket scalping shop under the Laclede Hotel ought to receive a little free advertising. His idea of a scalp is as ingenious as it is new in that he collects an even dollar more than the railroad company for a Chicago ticket. Just how much one could save by dealing with this party would be an amusing problem in accelerated economics.

A GRAY.

Won't Fight in the Dark.

3025 CHESTNUT STREET, April 16, 1881.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If my critics, "Cui Bono" and "Judge," will sign their communications with their real names to show that they are honorable men and worthy of notice, I will reply to them fully and courteously. If they have the courage of their own convictions, let them now speak out over their true signatures. W. W. BOYD.

Special Notice.

The Gorham Manufacturing Co.'s solid silverware, which is the finest in quality, most exquisite in design and the most elegantly finished of all SOLID SILVERWARES made in the world is on exhibition at Mermod, Jaccard & Co.'s, corner of Fourth and Locust streets. Anyone contemplating the purchase of an article of Silverware for Family Use or for a BRIDAL PRESENT should certainly examine these superb goods, particularly as the prices asked (all marked in plain figures) are even lower than those of inferior makes and qualities.

CITY PERSONALS.

Ed. Brues, of the New York House of D. B. Babcock & Co., is staying at the Lindell.

C. Minnegerode, Jr., formerly of St. Louis but now of New Orleans, is in the city and stopping at the Planters' House.

Contrary to the general rumor, Gov. Crittenden is not in the city, and he will not be Col. D. P. Dyer's guest when he does come. He is expected to-night, and will put up as usual at the Laclede.

The Gordon Murder Trial.

At the meeting of the Criminal Court to-day the case of James Gordon for the killing of Raymond Troxler, March 17, 1880, was resumed. Mary Wersenstein was put on the stand and put through a severe cross-examination by Mr. McBride, in which she contradicted the testimony of the principal witness for the prosecution. The testimony of the first witness was that he had taken up Troxler's cap. This was flatly contradicted. August Schuerzle, a shoemaker, was put on the stand and testified to much the same facts as the other witnesses, though he did not hear any such language as that ascribed to the boys by the first witness.

STERLING SILVERWARE,

Peculiarly Appropriate for Wedding, Birthday, Christening and Anniversary Gifts.

Peculiar attention is requested to the advantages now offered in the purchase of silverware through the facilities we now have as manufacturers. We have constantly in stock, or make to order, hammered and applied work, repousse work, laminated metals, table silver in sets or in complete wedding outfits at the very closest prices. We also carry in stock lines of the best known Eastern makes, such as Gorhams, Whitings and others.

Arrested for Perjury.

Mr. John H. Scholer was arrested to-day on a warrant charging him with perjury, sworn out by Douglas G. Cook. The information sets forth that Scholer instituted an action in the Circuit Court for a receiver for the American Wine Company, based upon a petition in which the informant alleges that Mr. Scholer swore that the company declared no dividends, and that he received only $18,000 for his stock and that the books were kept by Mr. Cook, and that fraudulent entries were made therein.

Taken to the "Pen."

James Moody, for attempted robbery; Thos. Harris, receiving stolen property, two years; William Smith, burglary, eight years, and Carter Washington, assault to kill, two years, were taken to the penitentiary this morning by Deputy Sheriff Martin.

A BAD MAN FROM TEXAS,

Who Essayed the Role of a Horse-Thief in St. Louis County.

His Capture Near Spanish Pond—Trial at the Dead Fall and Identification by a Telegram.

A bad man from Texas has been entertaining the farmers in the northern part of St. Louis county, making them forget there was a seed time in their efforts to keep up with him. He has been exploiting pretty much all the week in the barn-yards, and was only captured by the exhibition of a good deal of nerve. As an illustration of his recklessness he went into the yard of a farmer named Driscoll, while the people were at dinner, and in plain view of them wrenched open the stable door, got a bridle, and attempted to catch a horse. The farmer rallied and advanced behind a shot-gun, when the fellow weakened.

His attempted raid on the stables of Mr. Damon's blooded stock from near Spanish Pond forced his ruin. Surprised in his effort to make a capture he took to the open fields. Bob Jarrell mounted a fast mare and started in pursuit. Finding himself about to be overtaken, the fellow wheeled and steading a pistol across his left arm called a halt. Farrell was going too fast to stop, and there was nothing to do but to draw his pistol and shout to the fugitive to throw up his hands. This the would-be thief did, and with very good reason, for when his pistol was examined it was without cartridges. He gave his name as Kincer G. Hay, and regaled his captor with thrilling stories of his career in Texas. Farrell was assured that there were hundreds of dollars in rewards awaiting the man who returned Mr. Hay to Texas. The bad man represented that he was not stealing horses for gain, but that his sole object was to get away from possible pursuers.

Under the impression that he had made a most important arrest Farrell got together a posse and took Hay to the nearest justice's, in the neighborhood classically called "The Deadfall." Hay was given a preliminary examination. To the statements of the farmers respecting his intentions on their barns the prisoner added reminiscences of his life in Texas. He was held over and informed that he would have to go to jail. To this he entered a big demurrer to overrule which took several feet of rope and the best exertions of the crowd. Finally, tied hand and foot and surrounded by armed gards, Hay was taken across the country to Clayton jail.

Mike Fortin, the jailer, mounted a special watch over the desperado, and this morning word was sent to the Four Courts of the important capture.

Chief Chapman ran over his memorando with a view of identifying the prisoner and soon solved the case. He found a telegram from a respectable old farmer of McLeansboro, Ill., who wired that his son had been sent north from Dallas, Texas. The young man was a little off in his mind, the old man said, and he asked that if he should stray away from the depot here the police would be kind enough to put him on the right train and see that he was forwarded to Thackeray, to which place he had a ticket. The name of the traveling lunatic was given as Kincer G. Hay, and further details made it certain that the St. Louis county people had picked up the old Illinois farmer's unfortunate boy.

A telegram was sent this afternoon to the McLeansboro farmer telling him of the predicament his relative was in. Since being locked up young Hay says he came from Texas by train. When he got off the cars at the Union Depot he saw two negroes who had been with him in a murder and cattle stealing job in Texas, and being afraid they would give him away started off at once and never stopped until he got into the country. One night he says he slept in a ploughed field and after that he tried to steal horses to get as far from St. Louis as possible. His story about the crime and the negroes is believed to be an hallucination.

THE BOOM IN PORK.

How the Hog Product is Being Tossed Skyward by the Bulls.

On the 24th of March last June pork was $15 02½; it even sank to $14 97½. To-day it touched $18; a lift of $3, and most of the raise has been in the last two days. There is no doubt that the market has been manipulated, but there are other reasons besides cornering to account for this sudden rise. Adding the shortage in weight to the shortage in the actual number of hogs, it will be seen that there were 230,000 less hogs packed this year than last, and 960,000 less than two years ago. These and all of the statistics which follow are from the carefully prepared tables of the Cincinnati Price Current:

The increased exports are equal to 670,000 hogs, the increased home consumption 300,000 hogs, so that taking all the elements into consideration the pork market finds itself face to face with a deficit in the supply equal to 1,600,000 hogs less than last year. Stocks of meat, visible stocks of meat, that is, are reported to be one-half at Milwaukee, one-third at St. Louis, Louisville and Indianapolis, and two-thirds at Cincinnati what they were last year. In the face of these facts is it any wonder that the market is booming? There are only rational theories in favor of a decrease in price, the one-increased receipts of hogs—whereas there are, according to the best sources of information attainable, no hogs in the country; the other, that a higher price checks consumption. It is a matter of fact, however, that the hog product is even now below the average price for the past twenty-five years. The trichine scare is about over, and those in the trade understand thoroughly that the panic had its entire origin among the Chicago shorts Letters received in St. Louis today from Bordeaux, Antwerp, Madrid and London, give the most flattering assurances of a heavy foreign demand and the trade is actually on a healthy and solid basis in full obedience to the actual laws of supply and demand. That the consumption is following the market, it need only be stated that one St. Louis house sold in the last twenty-four hours, ending at noon to-day, 700,000 pounds of meat for actual consumption, and the stock was immediately replaced by the firm, which is most enthusiastically bulling the market.

In fact, one could search through the pork corner of the St. Louis Exchange with a fine-tooth comb and not find a single bear; every one is bulling and members generally are coming over and taking a flyer on June pork just to keep the pot a boiling. As to the amounts of money made already gossip is various. Francis Whittaker and Company are credited with having raked in $60,000 in the last ten days; James Meagher and the Scudders are close upon their heels with heavy gains. Every firm which has been bulling, and they are all bulls, has been making money hand over fist. The beginning of the end has not yet been seen. The following is Mr. W. S. Bartley's prediction, and at least a dozen merchants to whom it was shown agreed that it rather under than overstated the probable market: Pork will go to $20, lard to 12½c, sides to 10c. The figures of this year will be those of 1876 over again. In the meantime there are, of course, those who believe that the market has reached its highest point, and will flutter downward. Among those is Colonel Richardson, who has sold his complete stock of meat, estimated by those who claim to know at fully 2,000,000 and possibly 2,500,000 pounds, to Francis Whittaker & Co.

Gorham Electro Plate.

The Gorham Manufacturing Company has recently produced some remarkably beautiful tea and coffee services in their renowned plated ware, which so exactly resemble solid silver as to be undistinguishable from it. The finest stock of these goods ever seen in this city is now offered at prices established by the Gorham Company. Also, a new design in spoons and forks, known as the "Princess Louise," the most perfect substitute for real silver yet produced.

COOKS' COMPLIMENTS.

The cooking classes at the Pickwick were closed this afternoon after a two weeks' successful session. The lessons to-day were given together, the afternoon following right upon that of the morning. The attendance was by far the largest of the week, and the interest manifested was even more encouraging. When the bills of fare had proceeded as far as the tea and coffee a very interesting episode occurred, which was as great a surprise to Miss Corson as it was to many members of the class. While Miss Corson was engaged in reading to a dish the blackboard containing the bill of fare was turned around, and on the back was shown the inscription "Easter Eggs a la St. Louis." Miss Corson looked up and was puzzled at the mysterious entree. It was not on the day bill of fare, and she was puzzled for a moment to understand how it had come about. A few moments after she was led aside, and during her absence George, the colored waiter at the school, carried up a huge platter and deposited it on the cooking table. In the center of the platter was a large golden egg, filled with a dozen silver oyster scallop dishes, a brass tea kettle with a patent lamp underneath and several dishes and baskets filled with flowers. In the center of the gift was a card inscribed "Easter greetings from the cooking classes." Mrs. Springer led Miss Corson to the platform and told her that the tray contained her lunch. Miss Corson withdrew the cover and examined the offering minutely. She said that she was deeply grateful to her pupils for their kindness. She was not in the habit of carrying off whatever she could lay her hands upon, but she would certainly appropriate this and keep it as a remembrance of her many friends in St. Louis. The speech was received with much applause.

Miss Corson leaves to-night for New York. She will return in November and give another course of lectures at the Pickwick. The present course has been highly successful. Each lesson has averaged 150 pupils, and the Women's Christian Home will net a neat sum in consequence. The ladies who have in charge the organization of a permanent cooking school are undecided whether they will begin at present or will await Miss Corson's return in the fall.

THE SARGEANT FORGERY.

Gen. Morton Escapes the Penitentiary by a Defaulted Bond.

Gen. B. A. Morton, the distinguished president of an unbuilt railroad, who was picked up in St. Louis a year or so ago at the instigation of Sargent, a wealthy banker at Joplin, is likely to go free of punishment. He had considerable wealth in the way of jewelry and securities about him, and was on his way to Hot Springs with his wife and daughter. Sargent had been imposed upon by the General's smooth tongue and had been victimized to the amount of nearly two thousand dollars. He had kept his own counsel, however, and the meeting with the General here was a chance one. Sargent obtained a warrant and took Morton to Joplin, at the same time getting his money back by attaching the General's personality. Morton lay in jail some months at Joplin but finally obtained bail. He gave a bond of $2,000, inducing certain parties in Joplin to become sureties by placing in their hands collateral. This done he quietly deserted, and hasn't been seen in Joplin since. The case is still on the docket but there is no prospect that it will ever be tried. When last heard from Morton was leading a retired life near New Haven, Conn. His sureties are not likely to trouble themselves about him and the prosecution has no fund on which to draw for the expense of bringing him back. The bond will be declared defaulted and that will probably be the last of the case. The only punishment Morton sustains is what amounts to a loss of some $3,000 and the imprisonment at Joplin for several months.

Suing for a Sacque.

Judge Thayer and a jury in Circuit Court No. 5 wrestled to-day with a replevin case involving the possession of a sealskin sacque. In September, 1880, Addison Brengle, who held a position in the Boatmen's Bank died, leaving behind a personal estate including the effects of a family residence No. 2935 Laclede, all of which came into the hands of the Public Administrator. Mr. Brengle was a widower and his establishment was regulated by a housekeeper, Miss Annie Schadt, a young lady of very prepossessing appearance. The widower had stored at Hart & Duff's a handsome seal skin sacque which belonged to his late wife. It seems that he was taken sick while traveling East and the young housekeeper went on to attend him. He was also under obligations to the housekeeper for wages overdue, and the widower's rent and other household expenses had been paid by the housekeeper during his absence. He gave her an order upon Hart & Duff for the seal skin, but before it was presented Mr. Brengle's death occurred, and the estate was taken possession of. The jury returned a verdict giving the young lady her sacque and 1 cent damages.

Justice Barney Taaffe's Morning Exploit.

Constable Spaulding stepped into the Sheridan Exchange this morning to see a man, when he heard a great outcry. He ran into the street and followed in the wake of all the boys in the neighborhood who were rapidly focussing on Elliott avenue. What was Spaulding's consternation to see Justice Barney Taaffe, in undershirt and white stockings, waving his arms frantically and leading the chase of something Spaulding could not distinguish. At the dignified Justice's heels were a hundred urchins, every one yelling at the top of his voice. Spaulding fell in behind with a view of keeping an eye on the Judge, of whose mental equilibrium he began to be in doubt. Finally the crowd came to a halt under a tree, up which the Judge began to climb with wonderful agility.

The constable came on the scene in time to help the Judge down from his perilous feat, holding safe in one hand the object of so much solicitude, his honor's pet canary, "Dick."

Personating the Circuit Attorney.

Yesterday a medium sized man, dressed in a brown suit and wearing a light moustache, entered F. Barthold's cigar store, corner of Eleventh and Clark avenue, and saluting the proprietor, he said: "You don't know me, I suppose?" Mr. Barthold confessed his ignorance of the visitor's identity when the latter said: "I am Harris of Four Courts." The gentlemanly circuit attorney was known to Barthold only in name. The visitor then said he wanted to get a box of cigars. With this she walked it furnished though he did not have the money with him. He went into the Four Courts building with the cigars and shortly afterward called again to get another box, which was given him. With this he started down Clark avenue. Later he called, when Barthold had left and his mother was in the store. He wrote a note to Mr. Barthold saying that he had obtained another dollar's worth and signed it "M. C. Allen, Four Courts." Mr. Barthold called on Circuit Attorney Harris and discovered that that gentleman had not sent for any cigars and had received none.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

The case against Mr. Bryant in 'Squire Graney's Court this morning was discharged for want of prosecution.

Charles Edwards, son of Officer Edwards, returns to Denver to-night after burying his wife and child.

Henry Young, of St. Louis, had two horses, two wagons and a load of cocoa nuts stolen early this morning. Officer Coffey is on the track of the thief and is confident of bagging him before night.

The election for School Director on the Island is taking place to-day. The candidate are Mr. Doyle and Mr. John O'Hara. According to present appearances Mr. O'Hara will be elected by a large majority.

Louis Glendenman was tried by a jury in Squire Graney's Court this mornming, for assaulting and beating Charles Slattery. He was assessed $5 and costs. Thilo de Western was assessed $8 and costs for the same offense.

The City Council held a meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Burns, the express man, and his two sons had a little disagreement with one of the police officers at the Relay Depot this morning. Mr. Burns, it seems, has been hauling drunken men to the station for the last six years for which he has never received any recompense. This morning one of the police arrested a drunken man and endeavored to make Mr. Burns haul him to the station. Mr. Burns and his sons refused to work without pay and they were all conducted towards the station. They were released and swore out a warrant against the officer.

Charles Berning, the favorite secretary of ex-Mayor Joyce, died this morning. The death is shrouded in mystery, and will furnish a subject of investigation for the Coroner. The day of the municipal election in East St. Louis he was suddenly taken sick, and has been out of his mind till this morning when death came to his relief. It is the opinion of his numerous friends and the doctor attending him that he has been foully dealt with. A number of those supposed to know something about the case have been snmmoned to Belleville.

THE very last "Mazeppa" performance—Sunday matinee at Pope's.

Sessinghaus-Frost.

The further hearing of evidence in rebuttal in the Third District Congressional contest was resumed this morning. The following witnesses were examined: Francis Krauss and Charles Arnold, canvassers; John McGee, colored voter, and Peter Phelps and C. Knapperstadt, both qualified to register. McGee was questioned as to whether he had testified once or twice in the course of these depositions, counsel remarking that colored brethren are so much alike it would be difficult to remember a case of duplicate testimony. The canvassers' testimony had reference to the addresses of voters as compared with the lists. The evidence in rebuttal will occupy about four days and then the case will be submitted to Congress.

The Missouri Commonwealth.

The first number of the Missouri Commonwealth, a semi-monthly paper in the interest of immigration, is to appear on the 1st of May. It will be under the editorial management of Mr. Morrison Renshaw, Secretary of the St. Louis Immigration Society. The Commonwealth will be sent, in single copies, free to people outside the State who desire information about Missouri. Within the State borders it is expected to attain quite a subscription list at three dollars a year. A feature which will make the paper valuable to those having land to sell will be the publication of abstracts of all correspondence received from parties desiring to locate or invest in the State. The design is to make it in a sense the medium between those who want to buy and those who want to sell. It will be a paper of the size of four pages of the POST-DISPATCH.

The Last Day of Appeal.

This is the last day's sitting of the Board of Equalization. The cases of appeal in respec of the property of banks and other corpora tions will be passed upon at a late hour. The sitting will be prolonged several hours for the purpose of getting through with the business before midnight.

The Future Great Bridge.

The Sheriff sold to-day at the Court House, to satisfy an execution against Wm. H. Markham, 784 shares of the St. Clair and Carondelet Bridge Company, at 4⅛ cents a share. They were purchased by C. A. Cleveland.

Bock Beer! Bock Beer! Bock Beer!

The Anheuser-Busch Bock Beer on tap to-day and to-morrow at TONY FAUST'S.

MR. F. J. WADE, secretary to Mr. Kaub of the Fair Association, is getting out an illustrated guide to the Fair Grounds. It will contain cuts of every building on the grounds and every department. Also chapters on the natural history of all the animals and birds in the zoological collection. It will be retailed at the gates for ten cents a copy.

THE tax department branch of the City Register's office, at the Court House, has been abolished and is being gutted to-day. The volumes used for reference are being placed in the Comptroller's branch office at the Court House, and the remainder of the records are being carted to the City Hall.

THE Chicago and Alton now have a Sunday morning train to Kansas City, making direct connection for California, leaving Union Depot at 8:45 a. m. Returning, arrive at Union Depot at 7:05 p. m. This train gives sportsmen an opportunity to reach Long Lake and Wet Prairie and return on Sunday without interfering with business.

SPIRITUALISM.

PUBLIC LIBRARY HALL

To-Morrow Evening, Sunday, 17.

J. M. COLVILLE

Will hold a grand spiritualistic revival, assisted by the wonderful and newly-developed mediums, who invite the closest investigation, performing all their tests on the lighted Stage, without the use of any cabinet! No rope-tying! No hand cuffing! The following are some of the marvelous manifestations which usually takes place in the presence of these Wonderful Mediums.

A large table rises and floats in the air. Forms from the Spirit Land appear while the mediums are held hand and foot. A committee is chosen from the audience to secure the Mediums, and while in this condition, Spirits will materialize and dematerialize in full view of all present, and those who wish can shake hands with them as they go about the hall ... Tables will be tipped and suspended in the air, and at the same time spirit raps are distinctly heard. Musical instruments will float in a wonderfully strange manner, playing as they go.

A piano rises clear from the floor, and is played upon without a living soul touching it. Spirit hands and faces are plainly seen and recognized by their friends. Flowers are brought and passed to the audience by hands plainly seen. Materialization. Spirit forms walk out in full view of the audience. Colville's Wonderful Slate Test.

Messages written by an invisible hand before the very eyes of the audience. Clairvoyance or Supernatural Vision. A book is opened by a person chosen by the audience, at whatever page he may see fit, and is read by the Medium while on the Stage.

No Cabinet used. Everything on the open Stage. Scores of other tests equally marvellous.

As there are no reserved seats, it will be well to come early to avoid confusion, annoyance and possible disappointment.

Doors open at 7. Commence at 8.

All are invited.

J. A. POZZONI'S

Medicated Complexion Powder

The most exquisite of Toilet Preparations, the virtues of which have caused it to be in demand in all civilized countries, stands pre-eminent for producing a

Soft and Beautiful Skin.

It is acknowledged by thousands of ladies who have used it daily for many years to be the only preparation that does not rough the skin, burn, chap or leave black spots in the pores, or other discolorations. All conclude by saying:

"It's the best preparation for skin I ever used."

"It is the only article I can use without making my skin smart and rough."

"After having tried every article, I consider your Medicated Complexion powder the best preparation I ever used, and can not do without it."

HANGMAN'S ROPE.

How It is Twisted and Plaited and Tested and Tied.

A Manufactory of Execution Tackle in St. Louis.

At every execution that has taken place in St. Louis for the last ten years a small middle-aged man might be seen in attendance closely watching the proceedings and often taking part in making the final arrangements. The man is Robert Humphreys, who has furnished the nooses for all the executions that have taken place in this city for twenty-five years. Though he has been in the Sheriff's office the above fact is known to a very limited circle of acquaintances. His trade extends from Wisconsin to Florida and as far west as California, and yet there are not more than a dozen officials who know of it. Yesterday evening a POST-DISPATCH reporter found himself at the door of Mr. Humphreys' home, No. 2323 Rutger street. The knock was answered by a quiet-looking little lady, whose hair had grown prematurely white. A rosy-faced little child toddled along at its mother's side. "Can I see Mr. Humphreys?" was the query. He was not at home but a call later would probably catch him. As the reporter was leaving the noose-man was met walking along the plank path leading to the house from Mississippi avenue. When he came up he said: "So Michaeloff's rope broke twice," reading from the cablegram announcing the execution of the five Nihilists at St. Petersburg yesterday. "Well, hanging is one thing that all the care in the world should be taken, so that no botch will be made of it. There is a good deal that is horrible to many people about an execution, but what can be more horrible than the rope breaking. Did you ever hear of anything more horrible than the execution of the negro Jim Black at Marion, S. C., a few weeks ago? The man ascended the scaffold bravely. The trap was sprung and as he fell through the noose tightened enough to half strangle him and then broke. He was half conscious when the deputy sheriffs reached him. His muscles jerked spasmodically but they could not revive him, and thirty-six minutes after he first went through the opening he stood again beneath a noose that the sheriff had purchased in the meantime at a hardware store."

"Have you made many nooses?"

"Yes, I guess I have made maybe over 300. My father was in the business before me. He came here from England where he made execution ropes at London and Birmingham in 1823, and shortly after located in St. Louis. He owned a rope walk at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Park avenue, and when I was a boy, of course, I picked up the business. He died during the war, and I took charge, but it did not pay, and I shortly sold the walk. I have never stopped making execution tackle, which pays better than any other part of the business."

"How far does your trade extend?"

"Well, that I'll never tell you. I have shipped nooses all over the United States. Only the other day I sent one to Texas, and one to the Indian Nation. I have sent them every place."

"Have you any competition?"

"Not in this part of the country, but there is one man in New York City, who by the way furnished Black's rope which broke. He has supplied the Eastern States, charging $25 a rope. I have a monopoly of the Western trade and last year sent eight nooses to Illinois and six to different parts of Missouri."

"What is the price of the rope and how are they made?"

"Yes, I see that the New York man makes his of Italian hemp and charges $25 per noose. Now, I would like to get a contract to furnish any number of sheriffs any number of ropes at $10 each. The city ropes I furnish at $6 each; some I do charge $7 or $7 50 for, but $6 is my regular price. I now make my ropes of Russian hemp which I buy at a rope walk at the head of Chouteau avenue. It is directly imported from Russia. I used to use American hemp which is just as good in dry seasons as any grown in the world but of late the crop has been wet and rotted so that I could not depend on it. The Russian hemp is if anything superior to Italian for this special purpose—it is more compact and close. Not every rope maker can make a noose. I know one man who is a first class workman, but he admits himself that he would not attempt to make a noose for anything. A merchant might be wary about his credit, but there is no business in existence in which anything is so discreditable as the breaking of a rope is to me, and consequently I am rather particular about my work. All rope of this kind is hand-laid. From the hemp I first spin the threads, ten or twelve of which go to a strand; one of the four large twists in a rope. Four strands are used to make a rope; this makes forty threads to a rope. My father who was sixty-four years of age when he died learned the trade at Birmingham, England, and would put fifteen threads to a strand and sixty to a rope. This is carefully made and afterwards soaped by a boy, who runs along the rope while it is being made, rubbing it with castile soap. The end of the rope is then worked into a knot by unravelling it and tying the strands. With three feet from this end the noose is made by making a slip knot with nine coils of rope, through which the rest slides."

"Do you ship the nooses ready for use?"

"Yes, boxed and all; though I keep only a small supply on hand. At their request I often send instructions to the Sheriffs. You can see these are directing the arrangement of things about the scaffold." The following is a portion of the instructions:

1. In putting up the tackle take two turns in the first ring on the beam; then take the rope to the second ring, pass through once and take half-hitch until perfectly secure.

2. Hang the rope to touch the top of the trap with the noose well open. This will throw the body just under the platform. For this purpose the rope should be the height of the man, less six inches, the dimensions of the box.

3. Use a small box to ease the fall and avoid a hitch in springing the trap, as in this case the man's feet will not follow the trap down, but be thrown clear.

4. When you receive the noose "soap" or "grease" it; put it away in a dry place until wanted; soap it again just before it is used.

5. Do not use yellow soap as it has too much rosin and will cause the rope to stick fast in the coils. Use castile soap or plain lard.

6. If light let the man fall his own height, if heavy not over four feet.

"Have any improvements been made in scaffolds and nooses?"

"No, sir; not a single improvement, unless that the ropes now are not so thick as they formerly were. During the war two rebel spies were arrested and sentenced to be hanged. A fellow with a patent scaffold got permission to use his invention. I had to make a rope sixty feet long. There was a series of pulleys along the beam and the rope was fastened with a staple. I knew that my rope would be cut going through those pulleys or by the staple and I said so, but I had to make it. One of the men was a powerful big fellow, and the other a small man, about 140 pounds. Well, when the trap was sprung the men went down and the heavy man's rope broke just at the side of the staple which, as I had said, cut it through. The man fell to the ground, but he was as dead as a door nail before the rope broke, for his neck was cracked. The execution took place right where the Twelfth street bridge now stands and will readily be remembered by any old citizen for I remember it was a gala day. I have assisted at all the executions that have taken place in St. Louis."

Mr. Humphreys here showed a rope made to hang Nugent and Redemeyer. Sheriff Finn and Deputy Sheriff Finney feared that the rope might break, so extra strong tackle, ¾ inches in diameter, was made. Mr. Humphreys has altered the scaffold that now stands in the jail yard to its present shape when the three Italians, who murdered a fourth, were hung.

"Sheriff Watson," said Mr. Humphreys, "intended to hang two first and one afterwards, but he said: 'These men came from Italy to New York to kill this man, and from New York they went to New Orleans together and came to this city, were arrested and tried together, and, d— me, they'll go to Kingdom Come together.'"

ART NOTES.

Interest in art circles this week appears to center upon the opening of the St. Louis Museum of Fine Arts on Lucas Place and Nineteenth street. The date has been altered from May 6 to May 20. There is little doubt that the loan collection of pictures which will adorn the walls of the museum, remaining on view for some time, and which may be regarded the special feature of the opening, will embrace some of the finest works ever submitted to public inspection. It will be in every sense an interesting exhibition of the works of art contained in the private galleries of this city. Dealers are ruled out of the collection, but it seems that the efforts of all who take an interest in promoting art here are cheerfully directed in this instance to make the inaugural exhibition at the Museum a complete success. About 150 pictures will be placed on view, and the selection is in the hands of a committee composed of the leading art representatives here. The local artists will be fittingly represented on the walls. Prof. Ives gives his entire leisure to the work of preparation. The casts are being placed in position this week. No definite arrangements have yet been made as to the precise character of the opening ceremony but the plan of a card reception before the opening of the doors to the general public will be adopted.

The combination sale of the work of local artists will take place early in May. Some very choice works will be offered to which the finishing touches are now being given. Marple, Meeken, Tracy, Gutherz, Eichbaum, Baker and others will furnish some studiogems for this sale, and there will be a collection of the works of leading pupils in the local art studios. This sale will take place at Thonssen's new and commodious gallery, 608 Olive street.

E. J. Biddle's superb little canvas: "At the Garden Gate," the full-length figure of a fair haired girl waiting for the approach of a lover, is to be exhibited at Nashville, Tenn. The same artist is at present engaged upon a portrait of Dr. Briggs and a portrait of a prominent young society belle.

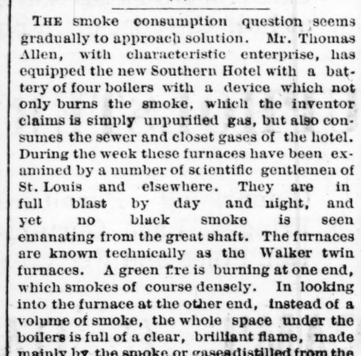

The famous picture known as "Three (Scape) Graces," by J. G. Brown, conceded to be his best work, has been sold during the week by Pettes & Leathe to a gentleman in this city, who modestly withholds his name, for the neat sum of $1,500.

THE smoke consumption question seems gradually to approach solution. Mr. Thomas Allen, with characteristic enterprise, has equipped the new Southern Hotel with a battery of four boilers with a device which not only burns the smoke, which the inventor claims is simply unpurified gas, but also consumes the sewer and closet gases of the hotel. During the week these furnaces have been examined by a number of scientific gentlemen of St. Louis and elsewhere. They are in full blast by day and night, and yet no black smoke is seen emanating from the great shaft. The furnaces are known technically as the Walker twin furnaces. A green fire is burning at one end, which smokes of course densely. In looking into the furnace at the other end, instead of a volume of smoke, the whole space under the boilers is full of a clear, brilliant flame, made mainly by the smoke or gases distilled from the fire freshly charged at the other end. It is a simple mechanical device. There are no steam jets or air passages through the brick walls to rob the boiler or furnace of the heat needed.

The draught whereby the smoke is drawn over the all consuming fire in the other end of the furnaces is the natural draught of the chimney. The saving is said to be very large in the matter of coal. It is a well-know fact that no more than fifty per cent of the actual power of coal is utilized. It is safe to say that the saving to the people of this city in paints, clothing, carpets, dry goods; in fact nearly everything is more or less injured with this pest, coal soot, annually to the extent of two or three million dollars. On the other hand the saving of coal to large consumers would in the aggregate amount to several hundred thousand dollars per annum, if not into the millions. These furnaces are daily visited by parties interested in the question of smoke consumption, its workings being explained by the inventer, R. L. Walker, who is in the city and will remain for a few days. This furnace is applicable to steamboats, locomotives, rolling mills, for consuming garbage without obnoxious smells, sewer gases, tallow and bone factories. These furnaces are owned by R. L. Walker & Co., of Boston. They will be tested by Prof. Smith, of the Washington University, next week.

WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY & LIVER CURE

The leading Scientists of to-day agree that most diseases are caused by disordered Kidneys or Liver. If, therefore, the Kidneys and Liver are kept in perfect order, perfect health will be the result. This truth has only been known a short time and for years people suffered great agony without being able to find relief. The discovery of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure marks a new era in the treatment of these troubles. Made from a simple tropical leaf of rare value, it contains just the elements necessary to nourish and invigorate both of these great organs, and safely restore and keep them in order. It is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness—Gravel—Fever, Ague—Malarial Fever, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs.

It is an excellent and safe remedy for females during Pregnancy. It will control menstruation and is invaluable for Leucorrhœa or Falling of the Womb.

As a Blood Purifier it is unequaled, for it cures the organ that makes the blood.

In the Circuit Court, City of St. Louis.
April Term, 1881.
Friday, April 15 1881.
Lizzie Terry,
vs.
Frank J. Terry

It appearing to the court from the petition and affidavit heretofore filed herein that the defendant has absconded and absented himself from his usual place of abode in this State so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, wherefore on motion of plaintiff by attorney,

It is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant, on the ground that said defendant wholly disregarding his duties as the husband of the plaintiff, has absented himself without a reasonable cause from plaintiff for the space of one year and over, to-wit: ever since the 16th day of November, 1879, and left her without any support, to take care of herself as best she could.

And unless he appear at the term of this Court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis, on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed. Ord

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis POST-DISPATCH, a newspaper printed and published in the city of Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Maple Island, a short distance north of here, is said by parties just down to be rapidly washing away, caused by the high water. The river here in some places is two miles wide.

As soon as the river subsides to a reasonable stage a force of men will be put to work cleaning the sediment from the settling basins at the Water Works.

The result of the high water here, although not proving very disastrous in a financial light, has been a great drawback to the vast lumbering interests centered here. The four dwellings of I. J. Buckley, at the foot of Destrehan street, are surrounded by water two feet deep, as also is the log mill of Tebkie & Schaage, at the foot of Destrehan. Davidson's boat house at the foot of Angleroadstreet, the bone factory near the foot of Harrison street, and the first floor of the elevator at the foot of Salisbury street is covered with water. The companies expect to be able to put men at work on their rafted lumber by Monday morning.

JOSEPH A. BONHAM, Esq., the well-known lawyer, 117 South Seventh street, Philadelphia, Pa., thus relates his experience: "About two weeks ago I was seized with what the doctors called muscular rheumatism in my right leg. The leg below the knee was swollen until I could hardly stand upon it. I had seen St. Jacobs Oil advertised, and I sent to the drug store near my house, on the corner of Nineteenth and Master streets, for a bottle of it. I rubbed my leg with it that night and in a short time the pain seemed to go away. Next morning the swelling had shifted from under the ankle to the upper part of the knee. I applied the Oil again and the swelling in a short time went away, leaving a very slight pain. I didn't use any more Oil, as I thought the attack was all over. About a week later it appeared again in the same place. The leg swelled so badly that, after coming down town and walking several squares, I gave completely out. I went home intending to try some French medicine, but I forgot to get it, and having a part of this bottle of St. Jacobs Oil in the house yet I tried it again, bathing the limb thoroughly. When I got up in the morning pain and the swelling were both almost gone, and after one more application I was as well as ever, and from that time to this I haven't been troubled."

The Legion's Hop.

On Wednesday next, the 20th, the Legion of Honor of St. Louis, representing all of the Lodges of the city, has its grand hop at the Merchants' Exchange Hall. The attendance promises to be very large, as each member of the Legion, which is one of the largest societies in St. Louis, invites several friends. The great hall will be crowded to its utmost capacity, and the occasion will be one long remembered in the social annals of the town. It will be a full dress affair, and it is whispered that a great many beautiful toilettes are in preparation for the occasion.

SIMON'S SUPPLICATION.

The Father of the Child Abducted at Funeral in Court.

Sensational News in the Court-Room—The Father Searched by Policemen.

The court-room of Judge Horner was well filled this morning, a hearing being looked for in the Simon habeas corpus case. The petitioner in this matter is the father, a Kansas City clothier, who seeks to regain the custody and control of his little boy aged eleven years. Mr. and Mrs. Simon have had family differences and have lived apart for the last seven years; the boy who is the subject of the court proceeding having for three years past been in the custody and control of the father, living under his roof at Kansas City. There were two other boys in the family who remained in the custody of the mother, residing in this city. The conflict for possession of all the children from the time that the mother and father separated appears to have been bitter, and the father in 1872 sought to obtain sole control of the children by a habeas corpus proceeding before the late Judge Colvin in the Court of Criminal Correction. That Court however awarded the custody of all the children to the mother. The lad in question, however, came into the possession of the father three years ago. A few days since the father received a telegram announcing the death of one of the children in the custody of the mother, and he hastened down here with his little boy to attend the funeral. In the neighborhood of the cemetery some parties acting in sympathy with the mother and elder son got possession of the younger lad and carried him away from the father, who made a frantic chase to recover him, but failed. Judge Gottschalk, as counsel for the father, thereupon appealed to the Circuit Court for a proper adjudication of the father's rights, and Mr. Rassieur was engaged to assert the rights of the mother. The lad, a bright little fellow, was brought into court this morning by his mother and several lady friends who are manifesting a deep interest in the matter. Before Judge Horner mounted the bench quite a sensational scene occurred in the court-room. Police Officer O'Malley and another officer entered and approached the father for the purpose of searching him. Counsel for the mother had been advised that the father was armed, and it was feared some violence might be offered to forcibly recover the child. Some expressions of indignation were heard on all sides at the unusual proceeding, although the father made but little resistance. The officers found no weapon upon him and withdrew before the opening of Court. When the matter was called up Judge Gothschalk took occasion to denounce the search process as an outrage, the like of which he had never heard before in that Court. Mr. Rassieur said that under the circumstances there were reasons to suppose violence might be done. He stated that the father at the cemetery a few days since had whipped out a dangerous weapon, threatening bodily harm, and there was no telling what he might do. No good citizen would object to be searched. The order of Judge Colvin directing the custody and control of the children to the mother in 1872 was read by Mr. Rassieur in justification of the attitude assumed by the mother, and he referred to the way in which the child in question was taken from the mother three years ago by the father. He thought that the rights of the mother, having been so clearly adjudicated by the Court of Criminal Correction, it was a sufficient response to quote that order, but if time could be given he would furnish all the testimony necessary in behalf of the mother. Or he was willing for the child to be placed on the stand and examined by the Court in the absence of all other parties, and if the child, free from all influence expressed a wish to stay with the mother, he would not resist it. If the child desired to go back to the father the mother's efforts, however, to resist that ought to be withdrawn.

Judge Gottschalk wanted to try the case in the regular way upon the evidence, and the Court appointed Monday next for a further hearing, the child meanwhile remaining with the mother.

THE RIVER FALLING.

Small Prospects of a Flood at This Point at Present.

The scare about the threatened flood in the Mississippi at this point is rapidly passing away and it is the opinion of river men that the worst part of the crisis is over. The gauge this morning read 27.7 feet and stationary, which is a decline since yesterday which promises to continue. The reading for the past few days is as follows:

Tuesday, 26.7 feet: Wednesday, 27 feet; Thursday, 27.5 feet; Friday, 27.9 feet. It will be seen that the boom stopped short this morning and the Father of Waters has begun to behave himself.

Along the Levee this morning the feeling was one of confidence. The anxiety of the past few days had began to disappear, and old river men were not slow to express their opinion that the worst was over. The fact that the Upper Mississippi was falling was looked upon as a good sign. It is thought that there is not enough water coming from the Mississippi and Illinois to keep the river at this point at its present stage. At Dubuque the prospects were good, and farther up there seemed to be no reason to fear any overflew. The Lower Ohio is still angry, and is threatening the farmers in the bottoms with an immediate deluge. It is thought here, however, that the scare is only temporary and that the danger will pass away in a day or two. At Pittsburg the river is falling slightly, which is considered a very good sign. The situation may be summed up by saying that the chief remaining danger is the chance of a small raise from Cairo down. The outlook for the planters is not very discouraging. If they can stand the amount of water they now have, with a possible small raise for a few days, all will be well. It will take heavy rains and a general melting of the snows to produce a freshet like that of '44. The worst is over for the present, but there is a prospect of high tide about the middle of June.

Of the frame buildings three will be two stories eight will be one story, eight will be for dwellings, three will be stables, and in all there will be twenty-eight rooms. The total cost for the frames will be $4,255. Aside from this there were permits issued for alterations to cost $6,700 and for repairs $200. The total cost for new buildings since Jan. 1 up to date foots up to $1,484,900.

THE NOTARIES PUBLIC.

A Commission Appointed to Whom All Petitions Must be Referred.

The Governor has appointed a commission to whom all the petitions for appointment as notary will be preferred with their recommendations. The fact that only a hundred are to be appointed for this city adds a great deal of value to the office, and the competition for the appointments is very acrid and bitter. As there will be so very much notarial lumber to select from an effort will be made to have the corps in St. Louis of the very best. The appointments will principally affect the business community, and consequently the names of Mr. Wm. Nichols of the Commercial Bank and John McCluney of the State Savings Association have been selected to represent the business interest in this matter. Col. A. W. Slayback and Mr. Given Campbell will represent the legal fraternity. The commission will commence its sittings immediately and its report in each case will be final. Each of the gentlemen has signified his intention of accepting the trust, and petitions and letters may be sent into any one of the four at once.

It is estimated that there are fully 800 candidates for the 100 vacancies, and the Governor has made up his mind that the responsibility for these appointments had better rest in St. Louis where they belong.

Charles Barker, a colored politician of local fame, and Albert Lablond, a youth of unsavory reputation, became excited over discussing the respective merits of the successful and unsuccessful candidates for Mayor last night. The discussion waxed warm and at the suggestion of one of the by-standers both parties agreed to settle the dispute by a regular old-time prize fight. A low piece of ground near the old saw-mill was selected for the conflict. About a hundred railroad men assembled and formed a ring and assisted in the numerous preparations for the encounter. A referee and seconds were chosen and the two politicians, each thirsting for the other's blood, toed the mark. After a few rounds were fought, neither party gaining the advantage, and both being pretty well bruised, the sport was interrupted by the arrival of a squad of police. Both principals were captured, but the railroad men beat a successful retreat. This morning the belligerent politicians were arraigned in the Police Court. Barker was assessed $20 and costs for his share of the affray. The fine, however, was stayed on account of his previous good reputation and a solemn promise of good behavior in the future. Lablond, being a minor and a noted character for one so young, was sent to the House of Refuge.

On Monday evening last the Committee on Relief met in regular session, but no matters interesting to the public came up.

Laclede Lodge, No. 22, I. O. O. F., will have an initiation next Tuesday evening. The members of sister lodges are expected to be out in full force.

The encampment that was mentioned in last Saturday's POST-DISPATCH as forming at Waterloo, Ill., was instituted last Monday night, with 25 members.

Wednesday night Excelsior Lodge, No. 18, had a very large attendance of visitors, and the new officers were installed with the usual ceremonies of the order.

Three weeks from next Tuesday the names of the State Grand Lodge officers-elect will be made known to the subordinate lodges, as the votes will then be counted.

The Odd-Fellows' Mutual Aid Society at its next session, Monday evening, May 2, will have a number of applications to consider and will also take in several new members.

The annual session of the State Grand Lodge begins in this city three weeks from Tuesday next. The place of meeting will be at Odd Fellows' Hall, Fourth and Locust streets.

Tuesday evening last Mr. Thomas Wright, Treasurer of Bellefontaine Lodge, was presented by the members of the lodge with a beautiful and costly tea service. The speech of presentation was made by W. H. Woodward.

The Odd Fellows of Dubuque, Iowa, are making extensive arrangements for the celebration of the sixty-second anniversary of the order. The Herald, of that place, says the event will be one long to be remembered in Dubuque.

A well attended and flourishing lodge is Summit, No. 277, which meets on Monday evenings at the corner of Market street and Summit avenue. The election of officers resulted as follows: A.H. Meyerpeter, N.G.; R. Varnell, V. G.; G. Heine, Secretary; Thomas Moore, Permanent Secretary, and John Ritter, Treasurer. At the last meeting a candidate was initiated in the order.

Pythian Knights.

Kansas City, Mo., so various exchanges report, is to have a new lodge of this order.

Syracuse, N. Y., has a new Pythian hall, the most elegantly furnished in the country.

Hon. Frank Wilers, State Grand Chancelor, from Kansas City, Mo., is expected in the city next week.

Four representatives, it is expected, will be sent to the State Grand Lodge by Damon Lodge, No. 28.

Gelwick's Pythian Advocate is out for April. It is a well edited Journal, and as a representative of the Pythian order it has no equal in the country. Long may it wave.

Tuesday evening last Golden Crown Lodge, No. 62, held a largely attended meeting and initiated 14 candidates in the second degree. The members of St. Louis Division, No. 2, attended in full uniform.

Ancient Workmen.

The increase in the membership of the local lodges this week is about seventy-five.

In the last three months Meta Lodge, No. 19, reports an increase of some twenty members.

Hallsville, Mo., has a new lodge with twenty members. O. J. Miller organized and instituted it.

Authority has just been asked by the Grand Lodge of Oregon to be put in the rank of individual beneficiary jurisdictions.

Candidates are initiated at every session of Anvil Lodge, No. 75, which is rapidly becoming one of the most prosperous lodges in the city.

Six thousand four hundred and forty-six, on April 1, is the Grand Recorder's report as to the strength of the organization in St. Louis.

Hereafter lodges in this State having by-laws to be approved by the Committee on Laws and Revision must attach the seal of the lodge and the Recorder's signature to the same.

To-night week Pacific Lodge, No. 122, will celebrate its second year by a grand ball. All arrangements possible are being made, and the event promises to be the grandest of the season.

Jefferson Lodge, No. 14, on Monday night held its regular annual memorial services. The occasion was deeply impressive, and is to the Workmen what the "Lodge of Sorrow" is to the Masonic fraternity.

The Overseer, in its issue of April, says: "Arrangements are being made to effect a consolidation of Western Star Lodge, No. 62, and Standard Lodge, No. 80. This will give the new lodge a membership of over 100, and we think be a good thing for both lodges, especially No. 62, for she needs a little more life, and this can well be supplied by Standard, No. 80."

Knights of Honor.

The Kentucky State Grand Lodge has just opened its annual session at Louisville.

Another new lodge has just been added to the order. This time it is at McKinney, Ky.

The degree of initiation will be conferred by the officers of Unity Lodge at the next meeting.

The session of the State Grand Lodge of Kentucky next week will continue day and night until ended.

Tuesday morning next the State Grand Lodge of Missouri will begin its annual session in this city at the Masonic Hall, Seventh and Market streets.

To-night the members and officers of Oak Lodge No. 100 will celebrate the sixth anniversery of the lodge with a grand musical and literary entertainment at Uhrig's Cave, in the western part of the city.

Olive Branch Lodge, No. 812, during the week lost two members by death. On Tuesday afternoon as the members of the lodge were engaged in the sorrowful duties of laying to rest the body of James P. Blakselee, they were notified that the "angel of death" had called another one of their brothers in the person of Geo. Reid, who met his death by drowning at the sinking of the tug Daisy, at Carondelet. The body of the unfortunate Reid has not yet been recovered.

HISTORICAL MENTION.

This organization was founded in Louisville, Ky., about seven years ago, and its rapid advancement has really been wonderful. It is intended to be the competor of none, but to labor with all in promoting the cause of benevolence, charity and fraternity. The last reports show a total membership of 125,000 in 2,425 lodges. Since its founding the order has paid to heirs of beneficiaries more than $4,000,000. In St. Louis there are twenty-two lodges, all of which are composed of the most influential citizens.

Independent Foresters.

The delegates to the Supreme Court of the World will be elected next month.

In June the Supreme Court of the World will begin its annual session in New York City.

Court Missouri, No. 21, at its last session passed a vote of thanks to the Foresters' Banner.

During the past two weeks the gain in membership in the local lodges has been no less than 200.

Last Tuesday evening Mr. Kit Branch, of Excelsior Court, No. 3, was presented by the members with an elegant and costly dress regalia.

Next Saturday evening Court Washington, of East St. Louis, anticipates an interesting session, as there will be work in the initiatory degree.

The Foresters' Banner of St. Louis has made its appearance for April. Its proprietors have spared no time or expense in its general make up. The State High Court has endorsed it as its official organ, and to-day its stand is second to no society journal in the country.

The following editorial from the Foresters' Banner of St. Louis is to the point, and is worthy of attention from all lodges of secret orders: "There is nothing that will tend to build up an order quicker and give the members more confidence and faith than the system of having courts visit sister courts in a body. This is fraternity and tends to strengthen and cement the bonds of union.

HISTORICAL MENTION.

The Royal Order of Fo esters was founded at Knarlsborough, England, in 1745, and in 1834, in a convention at Rochdale the name was changed to that of the Ancient Foresters, a title that the "Ancient" (or English) order still bears. In 1864 the first regular ancient court was planted in this country. About ten years ago some of the members became restless and dissatisfied with the arbitrary laws governing the order in America, and the result was that a large number withdrew from the English jurisdiction and the Independent Order of Foresters was launched upon the fraternal world on the 17th day of June, 1874, by the founding of the Most Worthy High Courts in Newark, N. J., by the energetic efforts of Alonzo B. Caldwell, who is now residing in New York City. The order now numbers fully 17,000 divided among 350 courts or lodges, 29 of which are in the State of Missouri, and 25 in St. Louis, From the date of its organization up to this time $400,000 has been paid out to the legal heirs of deceased members. The Foresters' Banner of St. Louis stands in front ranks of journals representing the great organization. The Banner is edited with great care, and its articles relative to Forestry show careful study.

Legion of Honor.

One hundred advance in the membership of the Legion for the week just ended.

Invitations to the number of 7,000 have been sent out for the promenade concert and reception to be given at the Merchants' Exchange on Wednesday evening next.

The Supreme Council officials met in extra session last Tuesday night and made a few changes in the constitution. The body adjourned subject to the call of Maj. C. M. Whitney, Supreme Chancellor.

American Legion of Honor.

St. Louis Council No. 222, A. L. of H., assembled at their hall, (Druids' Hall), Ninth and Market, on Monday last, at which time there was a fair number of companions present. Communications from the Supreme Council are becoming less frequent, and the prospects of the Council are brightening both as to increase of members and riddance of difficulties. As an evidence of the general increase of the order in St. Louis a large number of intending members were redorted by sister councils. There have been quite a numbers of councils established in the Southern States; and as at the outset of the order a promise was made that councils should not be established there, there is quite a little storm brewing. Whether it will amount to anything it is hard to say, but one thing is certain, it is far from quieted. Our worthy treasurer, Alexander Bisset, has been suffering from malarial fever, but is now in a fair way to recover. He was missed at our meeting Monday last. As the A. L. of H. admits ladies t as well as gentlemen, it is expected that the fair sex will soon show up as strongly as companions in the order. Assessment No. 11 is due on May 5, on which date assessment No. 10 ought to be in the hands of the Supreme Treasurer.

Key-Hole Whisperings.

The Knights of the Golden Rule report the forming of a new castle or lodge in this State.

Maynard & McDonald, it is said, are to shortly begin the publication of a journal to be called the St. Louis Lodge News.

The Chosen Friends' order in St. Louis is simply booming. Two more new Councils are now almost ready to be instituted.

In England there are over 25,234 mutual aid associations, with over a total of 8,000,000 active members. Several of them are over 200 years old.

Guy L. Kennedy, supreme secretary of the order of Mutual Protection, left last Monday for Northern Missouri to institute several new lodges.

In the General Assembly of New York a bill has just been called up, and, if passed, will exempt benevolent societies from the State Insurance Commissioners.

To Correspondents.

In reply to many inquiries regarding the historical and statistical mention which is now appearing in the POST-DISPATCH we would say that it will be continued until all of the principal societies throughout the country have been noticed. It is the first information of the kind to appear in any journal in America, and the facts have been compiled with no little trouble and considerable expense. Members of secret fraternities by carefully preserving each Saturday issue will in the next year have a full and reliable record of the founding, progress, membership, etc., of all the leading societies in the United States.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

There will be no united services at the Episcopal Churches to-night.

Father Hughes will resume his course of lectures at St. Xavier's Church after Easter.

Rev. Robert West is spending a couple of weeks in Texas engaged in home missionary work.

Bishop Ryan will officiate at the pontifical high mass at St. John's Church at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

Rev. C. L. Goodell will preach at Pilgrim Church Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m., with Easter music and sermon.

C. I. Scofield will speak at the Fremont Sabbath School at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, and will preach at at 6:30 p. m.

The repository at St. John's Church, corner of Sixteenth and Pine streets, is said to be the most handsome in the city.

An interesting baptismal service will be held at Dr. Nicoll's Church, the Second Presbyterian, Sunday morning.

The festival for the benefit of the Christian Brothers, who have charge of the Boys' School in St. Patrick's parish, will take place next week.

Dr. Goodell's subject at Pilgrim Church, Sunday at 7:30 p. m. will be "Church Bells," their influence on love of home, country and Christianity.

The colored sisters are now permanently located at St. Elizabeth's Church, and the school under their guidance is progressing satisfactorily.

In all the Catholic Churches to-morrow the annual Easter collection will be taken up, the proceeds of which go to the support of the priests in each parish.

On Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m., at the Second Presbyterian Church, Dr. Niccolls will begin his services on "Great Preachers of the New Testament."

On the Sunday after Easter Bishop Ryan and several of the local Catholic clergy will go to Hannibal, Mo., to dedicate the new church just purchased from the Methodists.

The friends of Rev. Mr. Robert, of the Church of the Holy Communion are urging him to take a long vacation, as his health at present is not such as to justify him in engaging in severe work.

The students of the St. Louis University will conclude the annual retreat at St. Xavier's Church on Sunday morning. Father De Blieck has been conducting the exercises, which were very successful.

The work of purchasing High Street Church and organizing a congregation society and service in the neighborhood is advancing rapidly. Rev. Geo. C. A. Adams will begin preaching in the church on the first Sunday in May.

Rev. D. C. Marquis, of the Lafayette Park Presbyterian Church, who has been invited to take the chair of Exegesis of the New Testament in the Theological Seminary of the Northwest, has not yet decided to accept the offer.

The Presbytery of St. Louis, in connection with the Presbyterian Church North, meets Tuesday night at the Glasgow Avenue Church. The Presbytery will then be opened with religious services and preaching. The meeting will continue in session on Wednesday and Thursday at the same place, meetings being held at 9 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7 p. m. each day. Six delegates will be chosen to represent the Presbytery at the General Assembly, which meets at Buffalo, N. Y., on the third Thursday in May.

THE TABLE.

Good Things that Cheer the Inner Man—Their Cost, Etc.

The marketers as a general thing report a very large week's trade.

Vegetables—Andrew Koetter & Son, of Union Market, furnish the following figures. By the peck—Turnips sell at 40c; sweet potatoes, 30c; Irish potatoes, 35c; carrots, 25c; parsnips, 25c; apples, 40c; spinage, 25c; kale, 25c; fresh tomatoes, $1 25.

By the dozen—Radishes 40c; lettuce, 50c; to $1; asparagus, 75c to $1; cauliflower, 25c to $1.

All other vegetables remain at last week's quotations.

Fresh Meats—The best veal can be had from 8 to 10c per pound; beef, same as reported last week, 9 to 15c; round steaks 8 to 10c; corned beef 6c, an advance of 1c per pound over last week.

Game—Mallard ducks 60c per pair; snipe $2 per dozen; mixed ducks 40c; teal ducks 50c per pair; dressed turkey 20c per pound; dressed chickens are scarce and selling at 35c to 40c each; canvas back ducks $1 50 per pair.

Eggs—There has been an unusual large demand for hen fruit this week, and as a consequence they are selling at 17½c per dozen, and very scarce. The probabilities are that no decline will occur until week after next.

Fresh Fish—The arrivals were very light for the week. The demand like that for eggs was very large and it was with difficulty that all callers could be supplied. The figures were high, being from 12½ to 20 cents per pound. This week closes the rush in the fish trade, Lent now being at an end.

Fresh Oysters—The demand was fair, and no changes in quotations took place. Selects are selling at 50c per quart; standards 30 to 35c; selects per can 50c; standards per can 30c.

Butter.—Chas. T. Fitzpatrick, of the Union Market Butter Depot, 506 Christy avenue, in his weekly report says Elgin creamery is still going at 40c; choice dairy 30 to 35c; second-rate dairy 25 to 27½c; choice roll 20 to 25c; country roll 25c.

Valuable Autographs.

From the Utica Herald.

Gordon L. Ford, the New York Tribune's business manager, has the richest autograph collection in the country. It contains not less than 25,000 bound volumes, 60,000 pamphlets, 50,000 steel-plate portraits and 75,000 autograph letters and documents. There are two rooms in which the visitor can scarcely pick up a book or piece of paper that is not a treasure. One room contains only town and local histories; of these there are 2,500. Another room is devoted wholly to autographs and steel portraits, and it is packed full on shelves and tables.

THE SEASON'S SPORTS.

Betting Men Keep the Book-Makers Busy.

The Pony Reds Against a Picked Nine To-Morrow.

Gossip of the Billiard Rooms—The Gymnasium Exhibition.

Ecker, Watts & Co. have been doing a heavy business during the week in books on the principal events to come off at the spring meeting of the St. Louis Jockey Club, and have been compelled almost daily to change the orders on some of the cracks. Morris & Patton's bay colt, Fellowplay, by Longfellow, out of Platina, who opened in the books at 20 to 1, has gradually been reduced to 2 to 1. The Bonnie Scotland, Arizona filly, Aranza, in the same stake, have been reduced ten points and Valparaiso 8 points, while the odds on some of the others have been increased. In the cup Incommode and Bancroft have been looked upon with so much favor by their friends that bookmakers have been compelled to drop the former 16 to the latter 11 points, the odds against them now being 4 to 1. Jils Johnson, also in the cup, opened at 50 to 1. The money came in so freely that the odds against him have been reduced to 10 to 1, and notwithstanding the dropping of 40 points, he still finds plenty of backers at the reduction. Long Taw, Checkmate and Himyar have all been liberally backed at the advertised rates to capture the cup, while the betting on the result of the Street Railroad Stake has not ruled near as heavy as in the Hotel Stake and Brewers' Cup; quite a number of the cracks have not been wanting for backers. At the present date the odds on the three events are as follows:

HOTEL STAKE.

2 to 1 against Fellowplay.
8 to 1 against Creedmore colt.
10 to 1 against Aranza and Storey.
12 to 1 against Valparaiso.
15 to 60 to 1 against the others.

BREWERS' CUP.

4 to 1 against Bancraft and Incommode.
6 to 1 against Long Taw.
9 to 1 against Checkmate.
10 to 1 against Himyar Jils Johnson and Jim Malone.
15 to 50 to 1 against others.

STREET RAILROAD STAKE.

6 to 1 against Checkmate, Lelex and Long Taw.
7 to 1 against Blue Eyes, Gold Bug and Gabriel.
8 to 1 against Lucy May.
10 to 40 to 1 against others.

Base Ball.

The new league club of Detroit tackled the Metropolitan team of New York City on the Polo grounds in New York on the 4th inst., and came out at the small end of the horn; 6 to 3 was the score.

George Wright's ball has been adopted by the College Association.

Cutts, the third baseman of the Princetons, is now in the Harvard Medical College, and will probably play with the Harvard team this season.

To-morrow afternoon the Pony Reds will play a picked nine at their park on Compton avenue. No charge will be made at the gate.

The Eclipse Club of Louisville will occupy the old grounds this season. New stands are being put up, and the grounds put in first-class condition.

The Nationals, of Washington, will trot out the following team this season: Trott, catcher; Weidmen, p.; Dallas, Powell and Warren on the sawdust; Wise, short-stop; Mansell, Baker and Gardner in the field.

The Dubuque Club has been reorganized, and will include Loftus, Reis, Commisky, Ross and Taylor. Mayor Lincoln, of Dubuque, the proprietor of the ball grounds, is president of the new club. Loftus will manage the team.

At the Red Stocking Park to-morrow foot ball, cricket and base ball will prevail. Admission free.

The Gymnasium Exhibition.

The spring exhibition of the Missouri Gymnasium will be given on the evening of Tuesday, April 26. A new feature will be the performance of a juvenile class in calisthenics, led by Prof. Neusche. Exercises on the horse by Neusche, George, Effert, and Kennel will follow; then Indian clubs, by Milt Moore and John Cousland; class exercises on the single bar; club swinging and the tug of war by the juveniles; tumbling by a class; the brother act by Wallace McCargo and C. W. Moore; double horizontal bar by Dinkleman, Lorburg and Parcells; the flying bars, by R. J. Delano; snaps, by John Cousland and Milt Moore; triple trapeze, by the Corlin brothers; parallel, by the club; Olympian games, by Cabansme, Delano, Newton, Holland, Haller brothers, Gore and George. The exhibition will conclude with leaping by the class. Afterwards the chairs will be put aside and there will be a hop.

Local Billiard News.

Business at Mussey's Parlor and Monarch Hall has been excellent during the past week, and, in fact the same can be said of all the other billiard rooms.

As an exhibition of the interest felt in this city in the Schaefer-Slosson billiard match, which took place in New York this week, it need only be stated that besides the telegraphic dispatches received at Roche's Turf Exchange, dispatches were also bulletined at Mussey's Parlor and Monarch Hall every 30 minutes, which were eagerly scanned by thousands of anxious and interested St. Louisans.

On Wednesday last Geo. Wheelock and Chas. Waterman played four games of bank, or cushion first, billiards resulting in Waterman winning three out of four—the games were 15 points each. On Thursday the same parties played three similar games of 20 points each, Wheelock winning two out of the three. The games were all played at Mr. Mussey's Parlor.

On last Wednesday Mr. Benedict and William Emery played three games of three-cushion caroms, twenty-five points each, at Mussey's Parlor, Benedict winning two of them. In the game that Emery won he made runs of 10, 5, 4 and 3.

Mr. Mussey has now got in all his new 5x10 Collender tables, making twelve in all, beside the two pool tables, and his room, although not the largest, is now the most complete in all its appointments of any in the United States.

Sam. Baldwin, superintendent of Mussey's Parlor, is getting up a treat for billiard lovers, to take place during the coming week, but the arrangements are not yet all perfected. It will be a series of games between Benedict and Emery.

On Tuesday Harry Baldwin and the Memphis business expert played a series of forty-one games of pyramid pool at Monarch Hall, resulting in Harry winning the odd game, but as they "sawed off," the Memphis gent footed the bill. On Friday they had another bout, Harry winning fourteen games to his opponent's ten.

On Wednesday Harry Baldwin and a railroad man played thirty-four games of single-handed pyramid pool in forty-three minutes, mighty quick work. Harry played eight balls or no count. The railroad man settled the bill.

Will Baldwin, the superintendent of Monarch Hall, had his moustache and goatee shaved off the other day and now his best friends don't know him. He looks like a young "kid." An acquaintance and patron of his room met him on the street, just after the operation and after shaking hands said: "It seems to me I have met you somewhere, but I can't place you." A hearty laugh and cigars followed the explanation.

On Thursday a prominent merchant and another business gentleman played a game of fifty points at the Monarch Hall. The business man got one shot—the first one—and missed; then the commission merchant ran the entire game out amid shouts of laughter from the bystanders.

To-Morrow's Cricket Match.

To-morrow there will be a cricket match under the auspices of the Victoria Clicket Club at Red Stocking Base Ball Park, wickets to be pitched at 11 o'clock a. m. A. S. Treloar and Dr. Martain will captain the respective elevens. One of the teams will be selected from players under 31 years of age, and the other from those over 31. Good sport is anticipated.

The New Orleans Races.

The next sporting event in racing circles will be the New Orleans races under the auspices of the new Louisiana Jockey Club, beginning Tuesday, April 19. The following are the events for the different days:

First Day. First race—Hurdle, mile heats over four hurdles. Purse $200; $150 to first; $50 to second.

Third Race—Walker stakes for four-year olds; two miles, $50 entrance, p. p., with $400 added by Mr. J. A. Walker; $300 to first, $100 to second.

Second Day. First Race—Pickwick stakes for three-year olds; mile heats, $25 entrance, p. p., with $350 added; $300 to first, $50 to second.

Second Race—One mile dash. Purse $200; $50 to first, $50 to second.

Third Race—Handicap for all ages; one mile and a half. Purse $250; $200 to first, $50 to second.

Third Day. First Race—Handicap hurdle, two miles over eight hurdles. Purse $250; $150 to first, $50 to second.

Second Race—Selling for all ages, one and a quarter mile. Purse $200; $150 to first, $50 to second.

Third Race—Howard stakes, sweepstakes for all ages, two mile heats; $50 entrance, p. p., with $300 added by club and $300 additional by Mr. C. T. Howard; $500 to first, $100 to second.

Fourth Day. First Race—Match race of one mile for $500 a side.

Second Race—One mile and a furlong, for all ages. Purse $200; $150 to first, $50 to second.

Third Race—Handicap for all ages, mile heats. Purse $300; $250 to first, $50 to second.

Fourth Race—Handicap for all ages, one and three-quarter miles. Purse $250; $200 to first, $50 to second.

Fifth and last day. First Race—Cottrill stakes for three-year olds; one mile and a half. $25 entrance, p. p., with $350 added, Capt. Wm. Cottrill to add a silver cup valued at $50; $300 to first, $50 to second.

Pool Room Notes.

Dick Roche is expected to arrive home on next Tuesday morning.

The next racing event after New Orleans will take place at Nashville, Tenn., commencing Monday, May 2.

Owing to an unexpected delay Pate's Turf Exchange at No. 12 North Fourth street will not be in readiness to open until April 29 or 30. When completed it will be very tasty.

The large amount of artistic decorative work on Ecker and Watt's new St. Louis Turf Exchange, at No. 18 South Fifth street, has compelled a postponement of its opening until Saturday, April 30. When finished it will be the finest in the land.

The American Hog Himself Again.

From the New York Herald.

European countries may see money in setting one another by the ears, but their recent attacks upon the American hog have resulted most disastrously. It was charged that a Frenchman died of trichinosis caused by American pork, and straightway comes the story that the death-dealing porker was a native of France and an inmate of the late lamented's private pen. It having been reported that much American pork contains trichinæ, the fact is developed that the rigid inspection that one of the principal importers in Switzerland maintained for some years has been discontinued because nothing was found to justify its continuance. Germany, where most cases of trichinosis occur, is the country in which much pork is eaten raw; it is also the country from which came the sausage that caused the recent fatal case in America. In the Western and Southern States, where most of the home consumption of pork occurs, the most earnest search by foreigners fails to discover a case of trichinosis. From first to last the agitation has helped the American porker to such an extent that, could he read the papers, he would become so insufferably conceited that the public would demand his death in simple self-defence. Europe will have to look at her own hogs. This time she has got the wrong pig by the ear.

SMALL SHOT.

The Mahone wave is but a ripple. Let him rip.

The he-how of the rural mule is the sign of a backward spring.

The C's are full of disaster to the Republicans this year—Chicago, Columbus, Cincinnati, Conkling, and so on.

Only the ragman knows how much more a United States Senator's speech weighs than an unfinished poem on spring.

"A little sand-bar of repudiation" is what a Republican member of the Pennsylvania Legislature denominates the Mahone dirt.

There are some Senators who are, perhaps, tired of "minority rule" from what they experienced during Mr. Hayes' administration.

A man in Indiana, Penn., has made a great hit by letting it be known that he keeps the hammer with which Paul Jones nailed the flag to the mast.

The name of Hi. Price, just sent in by the President, should remind the Republican Senators of what they are paying for their little Virginia whistle.

Rheumatism and Roscoe are Blaine's two implacable enemies. The first gets him down; the second—it remains to be seen what the second will do.

Three of the "unsalted generation" have been fined $100 each in Marysville, Cal., for smoking opium. The new law is severe, as it has to be a sort of substitute for the fool-killer.

In Washington it's the Government's money that incites the mare to locomotion. Every Secretary and Bureau officer rides in a carriage or landaulet at the expense of Uncle Samuel.

It is said that the sorry nags driven by Mr. Hayes when he last lived in Washington were bought for him by Private Secretary Rogers. Mr. Rogers was too intelligent to know much about horses.

The Chicago Times speaks of Hoar's holy horror. But the Massachusetts Senator is so kind and good a man that it would have been a thousand dollars in the Times' pocket if it had reversed its expression and put it horror's holly Hoar.

MORMON MYSTERIES.

How Women Are Treated in the Endowment House.

From an Interview with Miss Owens in Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"Going back a step," interrupted the interviewer, "will you tell me what they did to you in the Endowment House?"

"Well," she replied hesitatingly, "it was simply too horribly disgusting to relate. I have heard that some of the forms were founded upon Masonry, or that Joe Smith got some of his notions from it; but of that, of course, I don't know. The comparison must be rather remote, though, of course, for Masons can have no reasons for going through such performance. I was never there but that time, but the scenes made such an impression upon my mind that I have remembered all about it, I think. Soon afterward I drew plans of the buildings, on both floors, and I have a copy here that I will give you. Do you think you could print them in your paper?"

"The Mormon Endowment House is a plain, adobe building two stories high, built like a small dwelling house, so as not to attract attention. There are blinds to all the windows, which are nearly always kept down. On a certain day I went to the Endowment House at 8 o'clock in the morning, taking my endowment clothes, consisting of garments, robe, cap, apron, and moccasins. I believe people used to take their own oil, but that is now discontinued, as fees are charged. I went into a small room attached to the main building (designated in the plan by the name of the reception room) which was crowded by men and women having their bundles of clothing. The entrance door is on the east side, and in the southeast corner there is another, next to which the desk stood, where the clerk recorded the names. Around the north and west sides were benches for the people to sit. On going up to the desk I presented my recommendation from the Bishop in whose ward I was staying, and George Reynolds, who was then acting as clerk, asked me my name, those of my parents, when and where I was born, and when I was baptized into the Mormon Church. That over, he told me to leave my hat, cloak, and shoes in that room, and taking up my bundle I went into the room marked 3 on the plan, where I sat waiting till it came my turn to be washed. One of the women, an officiating high priestess, told me to come behind the curtain, which I have indicated by a waving line, where I could hear a great deal of splashing and subdued conversation. I had to step into a long bath, about half full of water, when another woman proceeded to wash me. I objected strongly to this part of the business, but was told to show a more humble spirit. However, when she got to my feet, she let me go, and I was turned over to another woman, who had spoken to me first, and whose name was Bathsheba Smith (one of the widows of Apostle George A. Smith.) She wore a large shiny apron, and her sleeves tucked up above her elbows. She looked thoroughly like business. Another woman was standing beside her with a large wooden spoon and some green olive oil in a cow's horn. This woman poured the oil out of the spoon into Bathsheba's, hand who immediately put it on my head, ears, eyes, mouth, and every part of my body, and as she greased me she muttered a kind of prayer over each member of my body—my head, that I might have a knowledge of the truths of God; my eyes, that I might see the glories of the kingdom; my mouth that I might at all times speak the truth; my arms, that they might be strong in the defense of the gospel; my bosom—— I do not want to tell this part of the story, but I do want people to know the truth and how disgusting and indelicate this thing is. Mormon people deny many of these things, and civilized and decent people can hardly realize that this institution is as infamous as it really is, but I solemnly assert that these things do exist. To continue: My bosom, that I might nourish the children whom I might raise by my husband (I was not then married, but expected to be), and that I might raise up a goodly seed, that they might be pillars and strength to the upbuilding and strengthening of God's kingdoms on earth. And so she got down to my feet, when she hoped that they might be swift in the paths of righteousness and truth. She then turned me over to the woman who had washed me, and who whispered my new and celestial name in my ear. I believe I am to be called up in the morning of the resurrection by it. It was 'Sarah.' I felt disappointed. I thought I should have received a more distinguished name. She told me that my name must never be spoken, but often thought of to keep away evil spirits. I should be required to speak it once that day, but she would tell me in what part of the ceremony, and that I should never again have to speak it. She told me to put on my garments. The are made in one piece. On the right breast is a square, on the left a compass, in the center a small hole, which is called the 'stone.' We were told that as long as we kept them on no harm could befall us, and that when we changed them were not to take them all off at once, but slip out a limb at a time and immediately dive into the cleian ones. The neck was never to be cut low or the sleeves short, as that would be patterning after the fashions of the Gentiles. After this I put on my clothes, and in my stocking feet waited with those who were washed and anointed until she had finished two or three. This done, the little calico curtains (marked A and B) were drawn aside and the men and women stood revealed to each other. The men looked very uncomfortable, and not at all picturesque. They only had their garments and shirts on, and really did seem as though they were ashamed of themselves, as well they might be. Joseph F. Smith then came to where we were all waiting and told us that if we wanted to back out now was our time, because we should not be able afterward, and that we were bound to go right through. All there who wanted to go through were to hold up their hands, which, of course, every one did, believing that all of the good and hold things that were to be seen and heard in the house of the Lord were yet to come. He then told us that if ever any of us attempted to reveal what we saw and heard in the house our memories would be blighted, and we should be everlastingly damned, for they were things too holy to be spoken of between each other after we had once left the Endowment House.

Cheap Gas and Public Profit.

From the Manchester Examiner.

The gas works in Manchester have always been the property of the inhabitants. Originally they were directed by a board of thirty directors selected from the commission of police. Up to 1835 they had a debt of £80,000. It has been the custom from the first to apply the gas profits to town improvements. In 1831 the sum paid for this purpose was £6,900; in 1835 it had risen to £10,135.

The price of gas has steadily been reduced. In 1838 it was 12s. per 1,000 cubic feet; in 1844, 6s.; up to 1870, 5s.; then, by a series of gradual reductions it has come down to last year's figure of 3s.; and a further reduction was promised in December last to 2s. 10d. per 1,000 cubic feet for gas having an illuminating power of 21,32 candles. The profits turned over to the public in 1879 were equivalent to 9½d per 1,000 feet.

The committee have been very busy of late years watching the many valuable improvements in gas making, and notably in all labor saving appliances. A most important part is the sale of the by-products, ammeniacal liquor, tar and coke, which in 1879 produced £80,000. The monetary operations of the committee are necessarily on a scale of great magnitude, the total income being nearly £400,000 per annum. They employ about 600 men in summer and 1,300 in winter. For interest on their debt they need £25,000 a year; for sinking fund, £30,000; they light the streets at a cost of £24,000, pay rates, rents, and taxes amounting to £13,000, and charge themselves with depreciation, £27,000. These items come annually to the enormous sum of £119,000, and yet the committee can hand over a profit of £52,000 to the improvement committee, and save the rates to that amount.

None of the summer bonnets so far shown are more attractive than some exquisitely simple ones having no trimming save a spray of roses and a muslin scarf.

LIST OF LETTERS

Remaining in the Post-Office at St. Louis, Mo., April 16, 1881.

Persons calling for letters in the following will please say they advertised, otherwise they may not receive them.

Free delivery of letters by carriers at the residence of owners, may be secured by observing the following rules:

First—Direct letters plainly to the street and number of the house.

Second—Head letters with the writer's full address, including street and number and request answer to be directed accordingly.

Third—Letters to strangers or transient visitors in the town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked in the left hand corner with the word "Transient."

Fourth—Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner and leave space between the stamp and direction for postmarking without interfering with the writing.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis, ss, In the Circuit Court, City of St. Louis, April Term, 1881. Friday, April 8, 1881. Phebe Ann Pomeroy vs. Louis Dwight Pomeroy.

It appearing to the court from the petition herein duly verified by affidavit that the defendant has absconded from his usual place of abode so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, and that he is a non-resident, therefore on motion of plaintiff by attorney, it is ordered that said defendant be notified that a civil action has been commenced against him, the object and general nature of which is to obtain a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant on the ground that defendant has absented himself without a reasonable cause from the plaintiff for the space of more than one whole year next before the filing of said petition, and for an order granting plaintiff the custody of the minor children of said parties.

And unless he appear at the term of this court to be begun and held at the city of St. Louis, on the first Monday of June next, and on or before the third day thereof, answer the plaintiff's petition, the same will be taken against him as confessed.

And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published according to law in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a newspaper printed and published in the city of St. Louis.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court, city of St. Louis, this 9th day of April, 1881.

{SEAL} CHAS. F. VOGEL, Clerk.

FORWARD TO 1884!

Never Despair of the American Republic.

Prospectus of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In the sixth triumph of Radicalism the POST-DISPATCH recognizes the most serious menace to republican institutions that the country has ever known. The Secessionists, under the leadership of Jeff Davis in 1860, sought only to divide the Republic, but the so-called Republican party of to-day, under the control of Conkling, Grant, Logan et al., threatens to destroy it. A great step has been taken in the direction of Centralization. The Republican party stands committed to the Money Power, to the vast Monopolies which foster class legislation and to every element opposed to the interests of the masses. Its compact organization, its late successful struggle in behalf of an unworthy standard-bearer, its sectionalism and its determination to treat as enemies of the country all advocates of a change of administration stamp it at once as a dangerous foe of Liberty. It is the party of Monarchical tendencies and its late triumph bodes no good to our institutions.

The POST-DISPATCH will maintain its position in the ranks of the Opposition. It proposes to battle more vigorously than ever against the party of Grantism and Centralization. This is no time to falter or grow weak. Cowards may skulk and some men who have suffered defeat year after year may lose faith and hope, but the duty of the true Patriot and lover of the Republic was never more clearly defined.

The POST-DISPATCH, while it acknowledges no fealty to men, will continue to preach sound, true Democratic doctrine and opposition to the pernicious tendencies of the Republican party. Its independence, its fearlessness and its honesty of purpose have been thoroughly well established. People who like a newspaper that has courage enough to point out the faults of its party associates and tell the truth though the heavens fall while battling for constitutional government will never be disappointed in the POST-DISPATCH.

The great Conservative party of the country cannot be annihilated by defeat. The existence of such an organization is necessary to the welfare of the Republic. Garfieldism in 1880 means Grantism and the overthrow of our existing system in 1884. The battle against the Empire and the Oligarchy of wealth must be commenced now. In the front rank of this contest the POST-DISPATCH will be found. It promises not to give over until the principles of self-government are vindicated. The POST-DISPATCH is now acknowledged to be

THE LEADING AFTERNOON JOURNAL OF THE WEST.

Its growth has been steady and legitimate. Its position is assured. Both its circulation and its revenue doubled during the last year. With increased strength its facilities will be increased, and the next year will witness great improvements in its methods and its aims. With the new year its news resources will be greatly strengthened. Its Telegraphic service will be enlarged, its corps of correspondents will be doubled, its mechanical capacity will be improved and every effort that experience can direct or money employ will be made to keep the daily POST-DISPATCH in the front rank of modern American journals.

The Weekly Post-Dispatch

is known and read in nearly every State of the Union. It is a handsome eight-page paper, filled with matter carefully prepared, sorted and arranged for the people of the West and South. Its Correspondence, its Stories, its Miscellany, its Editorials, its Agricultural Essays, its News and its Market Reports are features commending it to all persons who are unable, by reason of location or condition, to subscribe for an expensive daily paper. It is a complete epitome of the world's doings from week to week, and we have no hesitancy in pronouncing it the best and cheapest newspaper in the land. It should have a place in every workshop and rural home in Missouri and the Southwest.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The POST-DISPATCH will be delivered by carriers to any part of the city or sent by mail, postage prepaid, to subscribers in any part of the Union, on the following terms:

Daily, per week	20 cents.
Daily, per month	85 cents.
Daily three months	$2 50
Daily, six months	4 50
Daily, per year	9 00

The carriers will collect the city subscriptions on their routes; all subscriptions by mail must be prepaid, and annual subscriptions will not be considered unless accompanied by the money.

Trustees' Sales.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, the Greenleaf Mining Company, by its deed of trust, dated June 24, 1875, and recorded in the office of the County Clerk and Recorder of Summit county, in the State of Colorado, in book No. 10 of deeds, page 337, did convey to Daniel G. Taylor and the undersigned, as trustees, and to the survivor of them, (the said Taylor and the undersigned) the following described real and personal property, rights and interests, all situate and being in the State of Colorado, viz.: The mining property, situate, lying and being in Spaulding Mining District, in said county of Summit, commencing at a stake located at the head of the pit and at the upper line of claim No. three on Klack Gulch, and running up said gulch the distance of 1,400 feet and in width 100 feet on each side from the center of said gulch.

Also tne property commencing at a stake about 100 feet below the cabin formerly occupied by Thomas Klack, and running up a sag where said Klack formerly worked the distance of 500 feet and in width 100 feet on each side of said sag from the center thereof.

Also the property commencing at a point opposite the center of the bridge, crossing at Blue River, at Breckenridge, and running up said river 1,000 feet to a stake near the fall of the dam on said river at Breckenridge, and in width from hill to hill on each side of said Blue River.

Also tne property following, being a ditch and the right of water thereto, known as Klack's ditch, and conveying water from Blue River to said Klack's Gulch. Also the property commencing at the upper line of Thomas Klack's pre-emption claim, situate and lying in Klack Gulch aforesaid, running up said gulch a distance of 1,600 feet and in width 100 feet on each side of said gulch from the center thereof; all the foregoing being in said mining district and Summit county. Also the following property in said Summit county, commencing at the upper line of pre-emption claim made by A. M. Greenleaf and others, dated July 25, 1870, and recorded in book L, page 207 records of said Summit county and on Klack's Gulch, in said county, and running up said gulch a distance of 3,000 feet at a width of 200 feet on each side of said gulch from the center thereof. Also the following described property, situate, lying and being in Union Patch, in Spaulding Mining District and said Summit county, being claims Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 on the first tier south of Discovery tier; also claims Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5 on the second tier south of Discovery tier, also claims No. 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 on the second tier north of Discovery tier, also the undivided one-half of claims Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 on the fourth tier south of Discovery tier, also an undivided four-fifth interest of in and to the Cork-screw flume and ditch which carrries water from Stillson's Patch to Union Patch aforesaid. Also the whole of claim No. 6 on the fifth tier south of Discovery tier on the aforesaid Union Patch, the last described property being the same deeded by Mower and Hanks to A. M. Greenleaf by warranty deed filed for record October 1st, 1870, and recorded in book 8, page 344 of the records of said Summit county. Also all the right, title and interest of the said Greenleaf Mining Company in and to a certain lease, and the right thereunder made by one S. J. Mower and Melchior Hanks to A. M. Greenleaf, which said lease bears date the 1st day of October, 1870, and filed for record in the Recorder's office of said Summit county, in book 8, page 346 of the said record of deeds, which said lease is for the term of 99 years from the 1st day of October, A. D., 1870, and being the right to the use of the water from Blue River Gold Run and Union Trench of ditches after the water has been used as mentioned in said lease. Also the following described property situated on Union Patch aforesaid, to wit: Claims Nos. 3, 4 and 5 east on tier 3 west from Discovery tier, also a ditch and the right of water thereto, conveying water from little lake on Illinois Gulch to Cork-screw Gulch, this being the same property deeded to A. M. Greenleaf by deed and recorded in book 8, page 543, Summit County Records of Deeds. Also the following described property situate, lying and being in Spaulding District aforesaid, to-wit: Three side claims on the Blue River adjoining the northeas claims purchased by A. M. Greenleaf of Thomas Klack. Also claims numbered from 1 to 9 both inclusive, last on first tier north of Discovery tier; also claims 1, 2 and 3 last on second tier north of Discovery tier on Union Patch aforesaid. And also a ditch commencing at a point about one-fourth of a mile above the building formerly occupied by Whitman and Shollcross, and running down to the Klack claims aforesaid. Above property was deeded by M. and A. Silverthorn to A. M. Greenleaf et al. and recorded in book 8, page 152, of records of deeds of Summit county aforesaid. Also the following described property, to-wit: All the right, title and interest in and to a certain water right and the ground therefor, and to convey said water from Blue River to Klack Gulch aforesaid, and which right was first located and pre-empted by A. M. Greenleaf, and the record thereof is recorded in book "L" page 206, of the records of Summit county aforesaid. Also the following described property to-wit: All the ditch and water rights pre-empted by A. M. Greenleaf, July 14, 1871, and recorded in book "L" page 294, in Summit county records. SPECIAL COMMISSIONER'S SALE.—By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of the City of St. Louis, made on the 28th day of February, 1881, and during the February Term of said court, in the case of Sophia A. Tatum et al vs. Samuel N. Holliday, adm'r., of the estate of John S. McCune et al., the undersigned, special commissioner, will on between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and six o'clock in the afternoon of that day, sell the following described real estate, on the southeast corner of Jefferson and Clark avenues, in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, to-wit:

A certain piece or parcel of land in city block 1716, bounded north by Clark avenue, east by an alley, south by an alley and west by Jefferson avenue, having a front of 479 feet 10 inches on Jefferson avenue and 418 feet on Clark avenue, containing five acres.

The sale will be made on the premises, and will begin at 10 o'clock precisely. The property has been subdivided into lots; streets and alleys have been dedicated; the Board of Public Improvements has approved the subdivision; it is known and designated as "Tatum subdivision of city block No. 1716;" and a plat has been filed in the Recorder's office of the city of St. Louis. Plats may be obtained at the office of P. S. Lanham, 515 Pine street. There are 52 lots, and every lot will be sold. The sale is absolute—NOT SUBJECT TO THE APPROVAL OF THE COURT; the property is sold free from the taxes of 1881. The Commissioner will pay them. The old house will be sold with lot No. 4. Terms of sale: One-third cash, balance in one and two years, with 6 per cent interest, secured on the property. Purchasers can pay all cash if they prefer.

SAMUEL N. HOLLIDAY,
Special Commissioner.

FROM HEINE.

On Life's pathway overshaded,
Once an angel fair I found;
Now that vision bright has faded,
Blackest night is all around.

Children, when in darkness straying,
Airy spectres round them throng,
Lull the dread their hearts dismaying,
Singing loud a merry song.

I, a child forlorn advancing,
Carol through the darkness drear;
Though the strain be not entrancing,
Yet it drives away the fear.

MARRYING A GENIUS.

"I will not say that I hate talented women, but I will say I fear them. I would never marry a genius. I want to be comfortable, and, in order to be comfortable, I want my own way; and these wise women are sure to interfere. Yes, begging your pardon, dearest Aunt Mary, I shall eschew literature in its concrete form."

Thus spoke Horace Simmons to his good Aunt Mary Evans, who, he often said, had but two faults—one was, she was an old maid; the other, she was a "Blue;" consequently, in his opinion, though she made him and all her friends happy, she could not have made her husband happy.

"Seriously, aunty dear, do you think you could live happy with a husband?"

"I am rather inclined, Horace, to let the wilful man have his way, and not answer your question, for I have the disadvantage of reasoning a priori. But really, I do not flatter myself that I have talent enough to make a husband miserable, and I hope I have not the disposition."

"I know, aunt, you would not willingly make any one unhappy; but tell me whence comes the prejudice against talented women? It must have a foundation."

"I think I can tell you, Horace. In the first place, many duties devolve upon a wife. Too often wearying labor and wearying care are hers, and any absorbing pursuit, be it literature or fashionable dissipation, interferes with the performance of these duties, and consequently interferes with the comfort of the husband and family. Another reason—men of much will and little talent are often united to women of genius. Their wisdom is a rebuke to the folly of their husbands, and is resented as such. A woman of a high order of genius will attend to all the duties of her position as far as possible and, if the cultivation of literature occasions the injury and discomfort of her family, she will cheerfully resign her tastes to their happiness. I am of opinion that the highest earthly felicity must result from an union between two highly gifted and cultivated individuals, even though the wife were equally gifted, equally educated with her husband. Those ladies who neglect their duties to read novels have generally the smallest possible claim to be considered literary women or women of genius.

"Well, aunt, I presume you are right, but I am not yet in the mood for marrying a genius," and the accomplished Horace Simmons took up his hat.

"You must e'en make the journey of life as you will," said his aunt; and a tear came unbidden into her fine eye.

Horace caught his aunt's hand. "Dearest Aunt Mary, why do you weep? Have I wounded you by my foolish remarks? I dare say they were foolish. But, to speak truly, I have no more respect for the 'corporate Ishmaelism,' called matrimony, than you have."

Horace had answered what he supposed was his aunt's thought. He concluded she despised marriage because she did not marry. Her answer undeceived him.

"Nay, Horace, you wrong me. It is this very feeling of yours which I deplore. You would respect marriage were the deepest and holiest in your being living at this moment. Nay, you do respect God's most sacred institution. It is only the false which you condemn. Shall I tell you, my own Horace (for ever since your mother's death I have considered you mine), shall I tell you I am married? Yes, united in soul to one whom I can meet no more on earth. Think it not strange that your words grate harshly on my heart."

Horace looked at his aunt wildly and inquiringly, as he leaned against the wall for support.

"Do not misapprehend me, my dear nephew. I do not mean that I am married in the sight of men. But I was, years since, betrothed to one of the noblest beings ever given to earth. He left me six years since, to travel in the East. His vessel has never been heard from. His memory is sacred to me. Our union remains the same, because all that made it union—the soul—is immortal. He did not fear the little learning and wisdom of your poor aunt. He loved me, Horrace, deeper than the passions and fancies of a day, which consume in their own unhallowed fire."

After this interview, Horace bent his steps towards his home, to the house of his guardian, Mr. Gordon. He was a clerk in Mr. Gordon's store, and lived happily in his family—for they well knew that he had a fortune of $20,000 in his guardian's possession.

Mr. Gordon had two daughters—Harriet and Eliza. Harriet was a decided flirt, and this secured Horace against her. Eliza was quiet, domestic and dignified. Her pride was "hid in the store-rooms with her jams and jars," and shone in the beautiful worsted work that graced her ottomans and lamp mats. She was ever kind and attentive to Simmons. She gave him the strongest coffee and the hottest roll and sweetest butter. She wrought him the most elegant slippers. She saved the newspaper for him carefully in her work basket. Propinquity has made many a marriage (I use the word marriage here by courtesy, as we call a mean fellow a gentleman because he wears the garb). Simmons had committed himself with Miss Eliza, and had discovered a sad deficit of talent, before this conversation with his aunt. Hence his animadversions on genius, which were more to satisfy his own mind with the lot that he had chosen, or rather got entangled in, than his real convictions.

"After all," said he to himself, "if I cannot converse on all subjects with my wife, she will make my home comfortable and let me have my own way."

A year from his wedding day, and a select company of friends and relatives assembled at the home of his Aunt Mary. Let us look in upon them. Mary Evans is standing with her hand in that of a dark, not beauiful, but exceedingly interesting-looking man; and the clergyman and the book are there also. Has she forgotten the bridal of her soul? Can she, the good and the gifted, give herself to another, when she had said, "I am married?" No, no. Her betrothed has returned, not from another world, but from China. He had been wrecked, and escaped, and had passed through many chances and changes; but Mary was his, and he was hers.

A year more and Horace sat in his Aunt Mary's boudoir.

"It is possible, dearest Aunt Mary, that you have written that beautiful book, and given dear Uncle Marsden that sweet boy in the cradle, and cared for all else, as I know you have? Why, even Eliza, who never reads, has read the book, and she declares you wrote it on purpose to make me a better husband, and I added, 'and you a better wife.'"

"And you were both right," said Mrs. M.

"Oh, aunt; I wish to Heaven you had married first; then I should have known that a woman who has a soul could make her husband happy."

Horace, I shall preach you a sermon on contentment. Our unions are such as we are fitted for. When the world is worthy of something higher it will be given. Do not complain of the inevitable. Your wife has read one book. Read to her—read with her. Unlock the treasures of her soul, as far as may be. Do not complain of her, dear Horace, till you have done your part. I have little sympathy with complaining husbands and wives. Let them do all they can to make life tolerable."

Mrs. Marsden looked at her nephew. The tears were coursing down his cheeks.

"I see how it is, aunt. I have what I am fitted for, and I shall never be fitted for aught higher or better. The deepest, the holiest of my nature, will never be unsealed. I shall go to the grave a failure."

"If you are sure, my child, that this is your fate, bear it like a man. I am content to fall when I have done all I can. See that you do all in your power for yourself and Eliza. There are many successful failures in the moral world. You have lived to know the difference between a slip-shod novel reader and a woman of genius. Perhaps your experience may yet be recorded for the benefit of those who fear or hate women of talent."

Simmons left his aunt and returned home, determined to do his part toward his wife's redemption. He found her with what he internally denominated "that infernal and everlasting worsted work."

"Eliza," said he, kindly, "Aunt Mary has sent you 'Home,' by Miss Bremer. Shall I read to you this evening?"

"Thank you," said Eliza; "I am puzzling over a new pattern, and I can't attend to reading and working at the same time. And pretty soon Charles will be awake, and he is not over fond of reading any more than the most troublesome children of a year old."

Horace bit his lip, and swallowed a half-formed malediction, and betook himself to his reading. He made effort after effort, with like success. His wife had so much to do. She was so attentive to his comfort that she had no time to make him happy. She was an "excellent wife." She made pickles and preserves of a peculiar flavor. She always burned the coffee herself, and put it in a box, and shut it close, to be sure that none of the poison, alias goodness, should escape by exposure. Washing, ironing, baking, baby—all were duly attended to. She could trust no one with the oversight of her work. She wanted her house in order, and she was miserable unless it was so. The only solace of this hardworking woman was worsted work.

Oh! if men knew the glory of a superb pattern of worsted, the delight of delicate shading of many beautiful colors, and a luster of the linen thread and the brilliant beads, added to the most approved pattern, they would never sigh for military glory. But this happiness they never share with their wives. We might whisper to some bachelors that girls and wives have been known to get as much absorbed in this fascinating employment as Mrs. Austin in Goethe, Mrs. Somerville in astronomy, etc., and as little to the comfort of their lords. Had Mrs. Simmons loved her husband, she would have sacrificed her own wishes at times; she would have learned for the sake of her love. But she was fixed in very quiet indifference. Not that she could bear any attention of his to another. His partiality toward Aunt Mary was not over-pleasant to her. She liked not talking, thinking and writing women. She could not see why married men should be attracted toward such women. Why could not Mrs. Marsden and Mrs. Little, and all those selfish literary women, talk to her as well as her husband?

Time rolled on. Simmons loved his boy, and prized his wife's good qualities. His wife was his housekeeper—Aunt Mary his friend, his guardian angel. His boy was his idol. Horace Simmons cultivated his talents as well as one can who stands alone, and he was wholly alone. Mrs. Marsden understood him. The world would have been sad, indeed, without her. Daily did he thank God for the gift of his friend, who sustained such a relation to him that envious tongues could say naught against his communion with her. No lot is wholly evil. Everywhere in the desert's gloom, in the prison's despair, amid the discords of an unhappy home, man finds some blessings, if he can but see and reckon them. To the loving happiness comes unbidden. The indifferent and unloving seek it—at times they find the treasure. Simmons and his wife could hardly be said to be unhappy. They were busy, each in his or her own way. He was a man of principle, too good natured and too lazy to quarrel. But the end of married life, joint happiness and usefulness, was far from being answered.

* * * * * * * * *

Ten years from Simmons' wedding day, and Mrs. Marsden sat by his side in his elegant parlor. Three beautiful children, a son and two little daughters, surrounded him. He was weeping bitterly—most bitterly.

"O! Aunt Mary," said he, passionately, "I never valued my wife, while she lived, as I ought. She had often told me that I never would appreciate her till she was dead, and now I feel the truth of her words. She was such a careful mother. She kept my home so quiet, so nice, so orderly. What shall I do without her? Who will care for these children like a mother?"

"Let Charles stay at Mr. Wyndham's school, where he is so happy. Mary, Anna and you, my own Horace, shall come to me. I will love you, care for you, do all I can to make you happy."

Horace embraced his aunt—his mother—and said, "Oh, that all women were like you, wise and kind."

Time fled. Men advised Simmons to wed one of the many young ladies of his acquaintance.

"No," said he; "Aunt Mary has taught me 'not to follow a giddy girl, but, with religious, ennobling passion, a woman with all that is serene, good and beautiful in her soul.' And certainly the bereaved father of a family must feel that care, and not love, belongs to him."

Simmons saw few women but his aunt and her friends. The teacher of his little daughters was pleasant to him, because she was kind and gentle to them. She often spent an evening with Mrs. Marsden, and Horace read to them; and though he sometimes felt a little vexed that she did not appreciate the tales and poems he read from their favorite books, yet he liked her gentle manners much, and he found her ever ready with thought upon any subject which he introduced.

One evening he read the "Village School Mistress" to the beautiful girl, but she had no word of praise for his favorite story. She only blushed because, as he supposed, she, too, was a school mistress.

"Miss Crawford," said Simmons, rather bitterly, "I wish your taste ever corresponded with mine. I thought when I first became acquainted with you that I had found a second Aunt Mary; but Aunt Mary can appreciate a good story."

"And Jane Crawford can write one," said Mrs. Marsden, "for she wrote the 'Village School Mistress' and the other tales you have been admiring for weeks; and she wrote them amid arduous duties, because she knew you took pleasure in such tales."

A year from this time, when Horace Simmons and Jane Crawford had become really acquainted, they stood together at the altar; and he answered truly when he said he took her for his wedded wife. Sacred, forever sacred be that word—so full of all beautiful and blissful meaning.

Horace Simmons found his home as well appointed, and all material things as well cared for as if spirit culture had been neglected. His wife often said: "There is a time for all things." Her books, her work, her pen, her children (they were hers because they were his whom she loved), all had her attention, as they deserved. Simmons sought to triumph in the world of mind with a glad heart. He knew that he was understood, appreciated, loved.

The glad eye and smile of his wife welcomed all his new thoughts. His rough wisdom was polished by her taste. The sterling gold of his character shone all the brighter in the mild and beautiful light of her genius. They studied, read, wrote and worked together—for many were the cares and labors that the loving husband learned to share and lighten.

At Aunt Mary's last visit she found them in the library. Horace had written out a scientific paper. Jane was copying, polishing and beautifying his work.

"Are you not jealous of her ability?" said Mrs. M.

Jane looked sweetly in her husband's face as he twined his finger in one of her rich dark curls. He said to his aunt:

"Thank heaven, I do not hate or fear women of genius."

LAMB CUTLETS AUX PETIT POIS.—Take a pound of underdone roast lamb, cut it in small pieces, then pound them in a mortar to make a smooth paste; season with pepper and salt, beat up the yolks of two eggs and mix smoothly with the mass. Press it out to the thickness of a lamb cutlet; with a sharp knife cut it into pieces shaped like cutlets, dip them in beaten egg, then in bread crumbs and fry in hot lard. Serve on a hot platter surrounding a pile of boiled green peas. This is one of the nicest ways of using up cold meat; cold chicken or turkey may be used instead of lamb or mutton—and even beef is possible.

AMUSEMENTS.

Uncle Tom's Cabin at Pope's—Miss Mary Dixon at the Olympic.

Sells' Circus—Dramatic and Musical Notes—Gossip.

The sole attraction this week at the theaters has been Bartley Campbell's "My Geraldine," which has drawn goodly audiences to the Olympic. The iron-gray horse, James Melville, has been the star at Pope's Theater. Mrs. Pettit, otherwise Miss Fannie Louise Buckingham, was an adjunct to the equine performance. The stalwart steed concludes his engagement this evening. "My Geraldine" will be repeated to-night and to-morrow (Sunday) evening at the Olympic.

THE OLYMPIC.

Miss Mary Dixon, a young lady of Memphis, will make her debut at the Olympic on Monday evening. During the week she will appear in a repertoire embracing Marianna in "The Wife," Julia in the "Hunchback," "Evadne," "Camille," and "Lucretia Borgia." Miss Dixon is to be supported by Mr. John W. Norton and a specially selected company. The debutante is reported to be a lady possessing unusual dramatic talent and her friends are enthusiastic in their admiration.

POPE'S.

Rial's ideal "Uncle Tom's" Cabin Company is announced at Pope's for Monday and Easter week. There will be two performances daily—matinee and evening. The company is a strong one, and the play will be splendidly mounted. A half dozen Siberian bloodhounds and other extra attractions are also promised in the bill. Last season Rial's troupe met with enormous success here, and there is little doubt that they will be heartily welcomed back again.

PRINCETON COLLEGE GLEE CLUB.

The alumni of the various colleges are much interested in the concert of the Princeton College Glee Club, which is advertised for next Thursday evening at the Pickwick. There is a charm about college songs at all times that is irresistible, and the novelty of hearing them rendered by a well trained chorus of students, thoroughly imbued with the jovial life of which they are exponents, makes them doubly interesting. The programme for next Thursday includes "Bohunkus," "Tom Cat," "Old Aunt Jemima," "Peanuts," "Black Brigade," and other strictly classic (?) selections, which will be sung in the highest style of collegiate art. The Princeton College Glee Club is new to St. Louis, but is well and favorably kuown throughout the East, and the opinion of the New York World, that "the present Princeton College Glee Club may safely be set down as one of the most evenly balanced and excellent singing societies in the United States," is proof of their musical and artistic merit. The gentlemen comprising the club will be the guests of the Princeton Alumni Association, and will be tendered a banquet on Wednesday evening.

SELLS' BROS.' CIRCUS.

The Sells Brothers' Millionaire Confederation of Stupendous Railroad Shows is announced for the 2d of May. The huge canvas will be pitched at the corner of Nineteenth and Pine. The Sells Circus has the biggest pile of solid capital invested, the biggest parade, the biggest tents, the biggest animals, the biggest menagerie, the biggest circus, the biggest bands, the biggest railroad trains, the biggest electric light, the biggest feature in the smallest dwarf elephants on earth, the biggest arctic aquarium, the biggest and only pair of hippopotami, the biggest sensation in the pair of woolly elephants, the biggest only drove of performing Colorado cattle, the biggest and only rainbow hued mandrill, the biggest two horned rhinoceros, the biggest and only full grown pair of polar bears, the biggest equestrian card in James Robinson, with the biggest reputation and receiving the biggest salary; the biggest caravan of elephants and camels, the biggest Japanese circus, the biggest leaper in George M. Kelly, the biggest troupe of performing animals, the biggest features, the biggest-hearted and biggest-brained management, draws the biggest and most delighted crowds, is the biggest and best advertiser, receives the biggest kind of compliments from the press, and is, assuredly, the best and biggest of all the big shows. It will give two performances daily, and only remain one week.

STAGE NOTES.

Prof. Seeman follows Uncle Tom at Pope's Theater.

Belle Taylor is promised at Pope's on the 6th of May.

Genevieve Ward, in Forget-Me-Not, is booked for the Olympic on the 25th inst.

DRAMATICAL AND MUSICAL.

Kate Claxton and Maud Granger are now playing the way toward San Francisco.

The latest addition to the variety stage is a female who calls herself "Belle Telephone." Hielo!

McDaniel's Theater at Leadville, Col., was burned by an incendiary on the 27th uit. fully insured.

"Miss Fanfare," a comedy by M. Ganderax, was brought out at the Paris Gymnase on March 25.

Carlotta Leclercq has returned to the English stage, and at last accounts was playing Mercy Merrick in the Provinces.

Among the attractions of the new play, "Branded," at the Princess' Theater, London, are thirty French Lancers on horseback.

Clay Greene has just completed a three-act musical comedy, "A Terrible Malady," which has been accepted by the Salsbury Troubadours.

Katherine Rogers has a new play called "Heartsease," written by Piercy Wilson, of San Francisco, adapter of "That Man from Cattaraugus."

Col. Haverly contemplates taking Her Majesty's Theater in London for ten years, arranging with Col. Mapleson to play opera three months in the year.

Alfred de Musset's "Barberine," Dumas' "Idees de Mme. Aubray" and "Marie Pathelin" are among the forthcoming productions at the Theater Francaise.

It is said that two poets do the bulk of the work in Gilbert and Sullivan's new opera. One is a high-flown brute, while the other is a tender thing who descends to details.

It is reported in London that Lydia Thompson will be lessee of the Royalty Theater, beginning in September next. The theater is to have £3,000 expended on it for repairs.

"La Comtesse Fregonde," a five-act piece in verse, by Jules Amiques, the Bonapartist journalist and politician, has been accepted by the committee of the Comedie Francaise.

The manager of the Chatelet Theater, Paris, has ordered the actors who play the parts of the Russian officers in "Michael Strogoff" to wear crape on their sword hilts for one week!

Maurice Grau takes his opera company on the "South American circuit" shortly, opening in Rio Janeiro and visiting the principal cities of Brazil and possibly other countries during the coming summer.

The Kiralfy family sailed for London on Saturday to pick up points on "Michael Strogoff," now in its second week there. Mr. Colville will bring out the London version of this piece at Niblo's, in New York, on Sept. 5.

Admiral Carr-Glyn, to whom Adelaide Neilson left the bulk of her fortune, intends to set aside £3,000 and devote the interest to the relief of necessitous members of the dramatic profession. Henry Irving and J. L. Toole will join the admiral in administering the relief.

"The Passion Play" is still a possibility of the future in New York. The plan now talked of contemplates its production in a building specially prepared for it, to meet the objections of those who deemed it a profanation to deal with so sacred a subject on the regular theatrical stage.

It is said that Gounod has made such repeated alterations in his new opera, "Le Tribut de Zamora," produced for the first time at the Grand Opera, Paris, the 1st inst., that four distinct editions have been engraved by the publisher since 1873, the first copy being so extended as to call for seven hours for each performance.

Emma, wife of Matt Robson, cut her throat with a razor in London on March 1, but was unsuccessful in her attempt at suicide. She was arraigned in the Lambeth Police Court on the 21st ult. for the attempt, but the case was not disposed of. It was on hearing of this act of his wife's that Mr. Robson so suddenly left Leavitt's Burlesque Company to sail for England.

Here is what a Utica man says about "Olivette:" "The operetta which filled the Opera House with the harmony of music and laughter last evening can best be likened to the rainbow, which shines with variegated color for a moment, coveting admiration and leaving a delicious consciousness, but fleeting and unsubstantial none the less. It is the child's plaything, enjoyed for a time with a keen relish, but soon to be set aside."

Berlioz's "Romeo and Juliet" symphony has recently been performed in London for the first time at one of the Philharmonic concerts. A portion of it was heard in London in 1852, when it was conducted by the composer, but it has never been given in full before. This work will be performed in Boston for the first times on Monday and Tuesday evenings, May 16 and 17, under Theodore Thomas' direction, with chorus, orchestra and Miss Annie Louise Cary, Mr. Franz Remmertz and Mr. Julius Jordan as soloists.

A curious meeting of the three musical emperors is arranged to take place at Berlin this spring. The Abbe Liszt is coming to conduct the performance of his "Christus" by the German Cecilia Society on April 25, and on the 29th of that month Von Bulow will give a Liszt concert. Both will remain in Berlin for the production, at the Victoria Theater, under Richard Wagner's superintendence, of the "Niebelungen Ring." The Musik Welt draws a humorous picture of the aged Liszt strolling Unter den Lieden with a son-in-law on each arm.

Referring to Mme. Patti's change of purpose, in regard to her contemplated American tour next year, the Figaro of London says: "To take the lady on a concert tour through America, and to make no arrangements for her appearance in opera, seems too absurd for our practical cousins. Whether la diva will eventually go to the United States is a matter for the future. But while she can have, as she is now receiving in Paris, half the gross receipts on an average receipt of £1,200 a night, she is not likely to tempt fortune on the other side of the Atlantic."

The abolition of the "tingletangles," as the numerous cafe chantants that formerly disgraced Berlin were called, has had a strange consequence in the introduction of "singing piano players" in hundreds of beer saloons. These are always of the sterner sex, who sing, with voices more or less tuneful, to their own accompaniments, all sorts of songs, from the latest "gassenhauer," or popular melody, to the classic compositions of Schumann or Rubinstein. These poor fellows are ill paid, and are mostly persons who have been better days, who never thought that they would utilize the finishing accomplishments of their education to eke out a scanty livelihood.

The Dramatic News tells a good story at James O'Neill's expense. While the popular actor was playing at the Windsor in New York, week before last, a waggish acquaintance purloined from the front of a neighboring variety show a big board on which was a cut of a man dressed in Hibernian costume, holding a shillaleh over his head, and labelled "Jim O'Neill, the greatest jig dancer in the world." This was carried down and set in front of the Windsor, where it remained nearly twenty-four hours before it was discovered. O'Neill was exceedingly angry about it, but the News says his wrath bore no comparison to the rage of the jig dancer.

The direction of the German National Theatre at Mannheim, as a celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the production of Schiller's "Robbers," the first performance of which was given at that theatre on Jan. 13, 1782, offers a price for the best drama, to be submitted by Nov. 10, 1881. It must be written in the higher style, and in the spirit of Schiller's first works; must be a realistic reflection of the life of the present age and the German people. By this is meant not the dramatic presentation of contemporary political or social questions, which arise and pass away with the day, but such questions as affect humanity universally and lastingly, and which are given special color and form by the age in which we live.

A Russian Tyrant.

From the New York Sun.

Panjutin, one of the Government officials in command of the district embracing Odessa, in Russia, is described at some length in the Berlin Tageblatt. Within a few months after his assuming office, ninety-three persons were dispatched "administratively," which means without trial, conviction or even accusation, to East Siberia, among them several whose ages ranged between 14 and 17 years. Some of these arrests and banishments were effected in such haste as to occasion trifling mistakes, like sending off the wrong man. Thus, in place of the student Andreas Ostrowski, the typesetter Wildimir Ostrowski was carted off; and the same thing happened to a railroad laborer, one Kusceniranko, in place of a student of the same name. In the same category may be placed the arrest and banishment of a postillion, with his wife and a babe, a year and a half of age, the child being recorded as guilty of treason, and transported for that crime. Panjutin selected congenial tools for the execution of his orders. He directed one of his subordinates to search the laboratory of the University of Odessa. The man made the search, and found nothing that he could safely seize, but he nevertheless expressed strong suspicions because there were so many of "those electric batteries around." Teachers and professors were especial objects of Panjutin's kind offices. One of the Odessa faculty resigned his chair and quitted the country to get out of the man's neighborhood.

Farm Notes.

Florida oranges are now shipped to Europe.

There is no crop raised which yields so large an amount of food and with so little labor as Indian corn.

Do not neglect to roll your wheat fields this spring. Every farmer should have a roller. Their use is indispensable on a well regulated farm.

Professor Roberts tells us that fifty bushels of wood ashes per acre increased the yield of grass more than any other manure, while ground bones improve the clover.

Potash is absolutely necessary to successful potato-growing. The easiest and best way of supplying it is in the form of wood ashes. It is furnished also in soft coal ashes and well-rotted yard or stable manure.

It is estimated that insects injure the crops of the United States to the value of $10,000,000 annually, and it is believed that much of the greater part of the loss might be avoided by preventing the destruction of birds.

Water is a much better deodorizer than is generally supposed. It has great absorbing capacity. Fresh water running through a milk room keeps it free from odors. Standing water soon becomes charged with odors and then gives them off again. Water used in a milk room to cool the milk is a great purifier, but must not be allowed to stand more than twelve hours before being removed.

GOOD FARMING.

The Faults of American Agriculturalists Pointed Out.

Hints, Suggestions, Garnered Wisdom and a Few Household Recipes.

All admit that the system of farming generally pursued in this country is poor. It is not productive of large crops, and ordinarily results in exhausting the fertility of the soil. The yield of potatoes, roots, and small grain is smaller here than in Great Britain, although the soil is naturally richer and the climate, in most respects, much better. Twice as many cows are kept on the same number of acres of land in Holland as in the United States. In both countries the soil increases in fertility year to year, notwithstanding the large crops taken from it. The same is substantially true in all parts of France. Besides, much land is being brought under cultivation every season that was thought to be too poor to produce paying crops a few years ago.

The gradual exhaustion of fertility of the soil has been noticed since the first settlement of nearly every portion of the country. The first settlers of Maine became very wealthy by legitimate farming. Rhode Island and Connecticut were once wheat-exporting States. Taller corn formerly grew in the eastern portion of Maryland than now grows in Western Iowa. More bushels of wheat were harvested from an acre of land in Central New York, only a few years ago, than are now produced in the most fertile portions of Minnesota or Dakota. The present managers of the Mount Vernon estate do not find it profitable to cultivate the soil, but in the lifetime of Washington ship-loads of tobacco and wheat were annually raised on the farm.

The causes of our inferior and destructive system of farming are various. In the first place we have too much land to render it necessary to till any portion of it as it should be in order to secure the production of large crops and at the same time cause its fertility to increase or even to remain unimproved. Men will not expend $10 for fertilizers to apply to an acre of land when they can purchase an acre of virgin soil for half that sum. Neither will they spend time in producing crops that can be utilized as fertilizers. If they are in haste to make money, as most Americans are, they will continue to raise a succession of commercial crops on the same land till it fails to produce them in paying quantities. They will then "pull up stakes" and seek "fresh fields and pastures new."

In truth, this is what a large proportion of our farmers have been doing during the time the country has been settled. Tobacco-raising commenced on the coast of Chesapeake Bay, and has gradually been moving westward as the soil became exhausted of its fertility to such an extent that it would no longer produce crops large in amount or excellent in quality. It is not unusual to find tobacco-raisers who have moved five or six times in order to locate on lands that still retained those elements of fertility that are required for the production of the tobacco plant. Some of them started in Maryland and moved to Virginia, and then continued their search for new land through West Virginia and Kentucky into Missouri. They have become rich by means of impoverishing the land they have occupied.

The cotton-raisers have pursued substantially the same course. They commenced in South Carolina, and have advanced as far west as Arkansas or Texas. Some of them are now turning their longing eyes toward Arizona and Southern California. Those farmers who have raised wheat as a leading crop have followed the example of tobacco and cotton growers. Like the Indians they have been constantly retiring from the sea coast. Commencing with Massachusetts, one State after another has ceased to produce enough of the "plant of civilization" for supplying its inhabitants. First New York supplied New England, the Ohio supplied New York, and now the far Western States send wheat to those lying east of Illinois.

Cheap lands fertilized by nature and lying only a little further west have constantly been tempting farmers to neglect the proper tillage of their old farms and move to more fertile localities. Land-grant railway companies and the General Government itself have also exerted a very powerful influence in inducing farmers to neglect keeping up the fertility of the land they have occupied and cropped till it was no longer productive of large crops. Offering land at nominal prices, or as a free gift, has had the effect of making farmers restless and uneasy. Expecting to move in a few years, they become careless in their methods of tillage; they finally work their farms only with the intention of raising money to enable them to move.

It must be evident to every careful observer that the era of good farming, so far as pertains to keeping up or increasing the fertility of the soil is concerned, will not commence while a large amount of unoccupied land remains. Looked at simply from the stand point of money-getting, it is better, in the eyes of many persons, to exhaust the fertility of one piece of land in the shortest time it can be done under the system generally pursued in commercial farming, and then to pursue a similar course in relation to another piece. This method of farming remunerates the individual, but, as a matter of course, it impoverishes the soil as well as the community. As a rule, our farmers have become rich at the expense of the soil they have managed.

Land is only brought to its maximum degree of productiveness when it becomes scarce. Neither is all the inferior land brought under cultivation till the best is appropriated. In this country we have not yet reached the point where farmers think it profitable to render their land fertile in the highest degree, or when they think it will generally pay to reclaim bogs, drain marshes, or improve the sides of hills and mountains. In most parts of the country the time has not come when farmers find it profitable to purchase commercial fertilizers. In some parts where the land is naturally very rich and at the same time cheap, the majority of farmers do not think it pays to take much pains in saving manure or in applying it to the soil.

As with manuring, so with under-draining. All admit that land can be rendered much more productive, more easy to work, and less susceptible to injury by drouth by placing drain tile several feet below the surface of it. But tile draining is expensive. The material cost a large sum of money, while it requires much labor to put them in position. If the supply of land was limited or the price as high as it is in many European countries, a large proportion of it would be underlain with drain-tile. But so long as the cost of under-draining one acre of land is greater than the price of two acres that adjoin the farm, or fifty acres in the neighboring State, but little land will be improved in this manner.

The like is true in relation to buildings for the protection of farm produce and the sheltering of stock. Their value is so apparent as to be acknowledged by all. In countries where land is very expensive no farmer will think it possible to dispense with them. The waste entailed by putting hay in stack, and potatoes in pits, the extra amount of food consumed by stock kept exposed to the cold of winter and the storms of all seasons of the year, would render a farmer bankrupt. Here, in the West, however, we find many farmers who declare that it does not pay to put fodder under cover, and that it is cheaper to keep cattle warm by putting corn inside of them, than by placing lumber in the form of buildings outside of their bodies. As a rule the cheaper the land the less care is taken to protect their products or to shelter animals of any kind.

In countries where land is scarce and high the greatest economy is exercised in saving everything produced on a farm. In the wine-producing sections of France and Germany the leaves are gathered and fed to cattle; the tops of beets and refuse of sugar factories are also utilized for feeding stock. Pigs are often fed on weeds and nuts during a considerable portion of the year. If machines are employed for harvesting grass and grain they are followed by the hand-rake, which gathers up every straw remaining on the ground. On the sea-coast of many countries vegetation growing in the water is cut at low tide, taken on shore and dried. In Norway and Sweden grass is cut in bogs and hung on fences or rails and brush to dry.

In this country, especially in the Western States, a very large proportion of all the crops produced on a farm is allowed to go to waste. Valuable small grains that lodge in the field or are blown down by storms are not cut with a sickle, as they would be in other countries, but are allowed to rot on the ground and burned up or cut for fodder. In some sections hogs are turned into fields of small grains that are partially lodged. Potatoes are harvested by means of a common plow, which covers a fourth of the tubers. The use of the hand-rake in the hay or grain field is not common. The grain left on most fields is larger in quantity than the amount sowed. Very often, in a favorable condition of the weather, "a volunteer corp" springs up which is considerably thicker than that which first grew on the land.

The fodder of much of the corn produced in the West is wasted. It is estimated that more than half the cornstalks raised in Illinois remain where they grew till it is necessary to prepare the land for another crop. The leaves and stalks are subjected to the action of frost, wind, snow, and rain before cattle have an opportunity to devour them. At that time their value has been nearly destroyed. As a rule grass growing beside fences, along the sides of roads, or in wet places is not cut. Many farmers declare that it does not pay to spend time in cutting grass where the machine will not do good work. They are advocates of the slovenly system in conducting farming operations. They say there is no economy in saving. They go over ground as the early miners in California did, selecting nuggets, but neglecting the small grains.

Lack of cash capital sadly interferes with conducting farming operations after the most approved methods. In Great Britan a farmer is expected to have capital in the form of money, tools, and stock amounting to about $50 for every acre of land he occupies. In this country, however, a large proportion of the farmers have little or no working capital. They are in debt for the land they occupy. They keep little stock except what is necessary to work the soil. They owe for the implements they employ in raising and harvesting their crops. Many of them have borrowed money at very high rates of interest in order to make some improvements on their places. Persons thus situated are in no condition to cultivate their lands in the best manner. Most of our tenant farmers possess no property aside from a team, two or three cows, and some household furniture. They cannot, from the nature of things, improve the land they occupy. In fact they are not expected to do this. It is generally presumed that a tennet farmer will impoverish the land he occupies—that he will rob the soil in order to obtain money to pay his rent.

It is evident that the era of good farming in this country will not come till the large bodies of land now owned by the Government, railroads, and speculators have passed into the hands of persons who will cultivate them. Farmers will not then be as migratory as they are now. They will not think to move from one part of the country to another with the expectation of obtaining land at a nominal price. They will not find it economical to destroy or impair the productiveness of the soil they tend. They will, on the other hand, seek to keep up or increase its fertility. When there is no more excellent wild land to purchase or obtain by right of premption, they will improve what they have by a judicious system of manuring and under-draining, and by adopting a plan of rotating crops which will prevent the exhaustion of the fertility of the soil. Bogs will then be drained and the sides of hills and mountains improved. The capital that is now employed in the purchase of more land to add to farms will be expended in improving the land a farmer owns. A stop will then be put to the enormous waste that characterize our present system of farming. Hand tools will then be employed in connection with machines for cultivating and harvesting crops, and more attention will be paid to the protection of stock and the fodder designed for keeping them. In the meantime the waste places that are now so frequent in all parts of the country will be improved and even beautified.

FOR BUGS ON PLANTS.

CHERRY CREEK, Miss., March 28, 1881.—Can you inform me of a remedy that will prevent insects from sucking young plants, such as watermelon plants, cabbage, etc.?

H. H.

Answer—For the little black flee bug sprinkle the small plants with a mixture of soot, sulphur and ashes, or air-slacked lime. Some use a mixture of fresh cow manure. For the striped melon bug the best protection is to be had by covering the hill with a frame ten inches square, well set in the earth, and with cotton tacked over it. For the cabbage worm pour over the plant water just hot enough to kill the worm without scalding the cabbage.

SOWING CLOVER SEED.

It is not too late to sow clover seed. Orchard grass may do well yet, if the season is favorable; but in general it will be better to sow it in February, unless you have a piece of good land in fine condition for spring barley or oats, in which case orchard grass could be sown to advantage. It is a light seed and starts growth with difficulty. If you have not sown it yet I think I would defer now until the ground is dry enough to harrow nicely, then sow the orchard grass on wheat or barley and harrow well. Sow the clover seed and roll. The seeds will start promptly and more evenly and stand the not weather as well as any way I have ever tried. Light seeds grow more surely after the ground is rolled and the soil is pressed closely around them.

Household Recipes.

CELERY FRITTERS.—Boil some thick but tender stalks of celery salted in water; when done dry them on a cloth, cut them in equal lengths about one-and-a-half inches, dip them in batter, fry to a golden color, sprinkle fine salt well over and serve.

COCOANUT PUDDING.—One quart of sweet milk, three ounces grated chocolate. Scald the milk and chocolate together; when cool, add the yolks of five eggs and cup of sugar. Bake about twenty-five minutes; beat the whites for the top; brown in the oven; eat cold.

ŒUES A LA CROQUEMITAINE.—Put into a stewpan three tablespoonfuls of cream or milk, little grated tongue or beef, pepper and salt. When quite hot, put in four eggs, well beaten; stir all the time until the mixture becomes quite thick. Have ready a slice of bread toasted and buttered spread the mixture on the toast, and it to table very hot.

POTTED BEEF.—Take three pounds of beef well salted, pick out any gristle or skin that may be in it. Pound the meat carefully in a stone mortar with a little butter until it becomes a fine paste. Season it by degrees as you are beating it, with black pepper, allspice, or pounded cloves, mace, or grated nutmeg. Put it in pots, pressing it down as closely as possible, and covering it about a quarter of an inch thick with clarified butter.

DUMAS'S FAMOUS SALAD.—Dumas himself describes it as a salad of a high fantasy, of a composite order, and formed of five principal ingredients. Rounds of beet root, slices of celery, truffles chopped, harebells with thin tufts and boiled potatoes. And here shall follow the great novelist's recipe for making the salad, or rather the mixture: "I place," says Dumas, "in my salad-bowl for two guests the yolk of an egg, and stir it in oil till it becomes a paste. To this paste I add chervil, minced tunney, pounded anchovies, mustard of Maille, a large spoonful of soy, gherkins and the whites of eggs, also minced. Then dilute the whole with the best vinegar I can procure, and my servant stirs it; while over all I cast a pinch of 'paprico' and Hungarian pepper."
